Say Just What He Pleases

No Intent From Truman to 'Pull Strings' on Gen. Douglas MacArthur

WASHINGTON, April 26 — (AP) — President Truman said today he will not "pull the strings" on Gen. MacArthur but will let him say what he pleases, when he pleases, and where he pleases.

The President told a news conference that under legislation setting up the rank of five-star general and admiral, he could pull the strings on MacArthur, but that he does not propose to do so.

In response to a reporter's question as to whether he could "pull the strings" on the general he ousted, the President said that MacArthur may go where he pleases and say what he likes to say, now that he is back in this country.

The President was asked the status of Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's chief aide.

He was told that Gen. Whitney had made a number of statements respecting the controversy.

Mr. Truman replied that he seems to be press secretary and secretary of Gen. MacArthur, and added there are a lot of things being said and he does not object to their being said.

Mr. Truman said that at MacArthur's request, he made Whitney a major general.

Question For Marshall

As for Whitney's status, the President suggested the question be put up to Secretary of Defense Marshall.

It was then that he said he had not, and did not intend to place any strings on Gen. MacArthur.

The President brought a gale of laughter when a reporter said Whitney had reported MacArthur didn't have the faintest idea why he was relieved.

Everybody else knows why, the President said.

The President declined to confirm or deny a New York Times story last week concerning an administration document purporting to cover Mr. Truman's conference on Wake Island with MacArthur last October.

A reporter noted this story had said MacArthur had apologized to the President for previous comments on the Formosa question.

The questioner asked how there happened to be a document covering the hour in which Mr. Truman and MacArthur were alone in a conference.

Mr. Truman wouldn't comment on whether there was an apology, but said he might have documented an account himself, but, he told reporters, he wanted to emphasize that he might have.

Not Answer Query

"Did Gen. MacArthur apologise to you?" a reporter pressed.

Mr. Truman said he couldn't answer a question like that.

As for the controversy, the President said that a great deal of material will come out at Senate committee hearings.

As to whether these hearings should be held behind closed doors or open to the public, Mr. Truman said that's the Senate's business.

The exchange on MacArthur brought several outbursts of laughter.

One came when the President pointed out that five-star generals have lifetime jobs and can be recalled at any time for service, just as he has recalled Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Admiral Chester Nimitz.

"Have you anything in mind for Gen. MacArthur?" a reporter wanted to know.

The President joined in the laughter when he replied:

"Not at the present time."

A statement on Whitney's status came from the Pentagon:

In answer to reporter's question, an army spokesman said Whitney asked for retirement from the army on April 12.

The request was sent in message form to the Pentagon on that day and on the following day the army replied his request was approved, contingent on the usual physical clearance required for all officers seeking retirement.

That is the situation as of today, the spokesman said, adding that Whitney is on active duty with MacArthur in an assignment covered by orders issued by MacArthur.

House Passes Big Defense Bill

WASHINGTON, April 26 — (AP) —The House today passed a $6,468,206,000 defense appropriation bill. The money is to be used largely to buy weapons of war.

It supplements an estimated $42,000,000,000 previously appropriated for national defense for this fiscal year, ending next June 30.

Passage was by voice vote. It came quickly after Rep. Mahon (D-Tex), chairman of a military appropriations subcommittee, told the House:

"The United States is not now prepared to wage an all-out war against a major power . . . but no other nation is prepared for an all-out shooting war against another major power."

Planning Mail Routes by Trucks

WASHINGTON, April 26—(AP)—The post office announced plans yesterday for transferring 14 short distance mail routes out of St. Louis from railroads to trucks.

Bids will be advertised before May 10 and the shift made about July, the department said, with the idea of saving 12 per cent in costs and speeding delivery as much as 24 hours.

The routes effected in Missouri will be between St. Louis and Fredericktown, Springfield, Hannibal, Jefferson City, Cape Girardeau, Columbia and Belle.

Navy Divers In Recovery of Crash Victims

Bodies Taken to Key West From Wrecked Aircraft

By E. V. W. Jones

KEY WEST, Fla., April 26—(AP)—Grim navy divers recovered more wreckage and mangled bodies today from the shattered sections of a Cuban airliner and a navy trainer plane which collided and killed 43 persons.

By 10 a. m. (EST) a total of 23 bodies had been brought to the surface, and taken to morgues in this sorrowing southernmost city in the United States. Nineteen were located yesterday after the crash.

Nineteen divers worked in relays, two at a time, over the smashed pieces of the four-engined transport, scattered over a wide area on the sandy bottom 20 feet below the surface.

Other divers located what was left of the navy trainer plane about two miles away. The big wheel, the boat used for fishing trips by President Truman, found the wreckage with grappling irons.

Navy diver James A. Atkinson, of Jacksonville, Fla., said the transport plane "looked like a junk pile on the bottom. You can walk all over the wreckage except for part of a wing which sticks straight up 15 feet from the bottom."

The largest section recovered so far was part of the forward portion of the transport. It was smashed and twisted. A woman's foot and shreds of bodies came up with it.

Divers also found a skull, with the flesh torn away, apparently by the force of the impact.

Like Bomb Blast

The four-engined transport, carrying 34 passengers and five crewmen from Miami to Havana, and the navy plane, a twin-motored Beechcraft with four aboard, collided with a noise like a bomb blast over Wey West shortly before noon yesterday.

Then, in full view of hundreds of shocked sunbathers and residents of the city, the airliner power-dived into the ocean at a speed estimated by witnesses at 600 miles an hour. It landed a half-mile offshore, not far from President Truman's "little White House."

The navy craft, distinguished as it fell, crashed two miles west of the transport.

Marine PFC Arthur Calogero of (3 Magnolia ave.) Jersey City, N. J., saw the planes come down with engines roaring and notified authorities at the navy submarine base here. So quickly did navy craft go into action that the first body from the navy plane was recovered in 10 minutes and the first from the airliner in 15 minutes.

Explosive noise of the collision shocked hundreds to attention. George and Charles Faraldo, operators of a Key West flying service, said the left wing of the transport fell off and it went into a tight spiral.

"The pilot turned on full power and managed to pull out of the spiral," George related. "But then the plane nosed over in a straight dive and hit the water with the engines wide open.

"The water sprewed so high into the air we could see it over the treetops from the airport."

Call For Billions In Taxes

President in Special Message Asks Ten Billion Immediately

WASHINGTON, April 26 —(AP)—President Truman, saying inflationary pressures "have not yet reached their peak," asked Congress today for higher taxes, tighter credit controls and "fair ceilings" on farm and other products.

In a special message to the lawmakers, Mr. Truman urged speedy action. He said: "The world situation could explode at any time, and we must make every day count."

The President's request for "fair ceilings" on farm and other products is aimed at permitting tighter controls on food prices.

"I do believe x x x that for price control purposes, the parity price for each commodity prevailing at the start of its normal marketing season should be applied throughout the balance of the marketing season, just as is the case in most of our agricultural price support programs.

"I recommend that the defense production act be amended to provide for this. Under this amendment, the parity price will continue to be a minimum standard fo reach price ceiling."

He said this sort of control would suffice to stabilize food prices for the time being.

If that doesn't work, the President said, Congress will need to consider the use of other devices, "including limited food subsidies to prevent necessary farm price

Oatis Arrested By The Czechs

AP Bureau Head At Prague Accused On Three Charges

FRANKFURT, Germany, April 26—(AP)—The Czechoslovak Communist government announced today it has arrested William N. Oatis, missing chief of the Associated Press Prague bureau, for "activities hostile to the state."

Oatis, chief of the AP's Prague bureau, vanished Monday — the fifth employe of the AP Prague bureau to disappear in three weeks. Government statements seemed to indicate the other employes, all Czech nationals, would be presented in the role of witnesses against Oatis.

The correspondent, who had complained to the U. S. embassy that he was being shadowed 24 hours a day, apparently was pounced upon by secret police Monday night as he put his car in his garage.

For more than 48 hours there was no word of him. The U. S. embassy, suspecting he was arrested, demanded information from the Czech foreign ministry. Today U. S. embassy counsellor Tyler Thompson said the foreign ministry told him Oatis was arrested on three charges:

"1. Activities hostile to the state.

"2. Gathering and disseminating information considered secret by Czechoslovakia.

"3. Spreading malicious information regarding the Czech state through illegal news organs, for which purpose he misused Czech citizens."

A Tribute

In days of health, in days of illness the regime' of Rosemary Burrowes was to live for her newspaper, of which she was news editor. Like father and brothers before her she early determined to devote her life to newspaper work and thus it was she began her chosen career on the home town daily.

As the years passed Rosemary's personality, kindness, charity and counsel on duty and off duty penetrated to every nook and cranny of Sedalia community life. The town's problems, individual and family vexations were laid in her lap for advice. Her home and her office became a mecca for all of them. For whatever personal distress she had — and it was always suppressed — the church was sanctuary.

Some may say that those of us who for years worked beside and with her might be prone to over-emotionalism at a time like this; it is a human characteristic to be so. Yet Rosemary's life work is so indelibly written, so graphically demonstrated that superlatives become just average achievement in the record of her service.

Rosemary's newspaper duty was her real happiness. Her mind fought tenaciously against diminishing physical vigor, ever clinging to the hope that there might be yet another day for her at the office, another newspaper edition to edit, another person to befriend or advise.

She left behind a legacy of friendships and performed service to mankind the memory of which will never dim.

Thousands in Welcome to MacArthur

Seventeen-gun Salute as He Reaches Chicago

CHICAGO, April 26 — (AP) — Massed thousands of Chicagoans and other midwesterners shouted a welcome to General MacArthur today.

The "Hi, Mac" ovation began when the general's plane, the "Bataan," landed at the Midway airport at 12:20 p. m. central standard time.

General MacArthur followed his wife, Jean, and son, Arthur, down the ramp. He smiled and waved his hand. The crowd cheered.

MacArthur, bundled up in a trenchcoat against the chill winds, was greeted by Mayor Martin H. Kennelly.

"I am glad to be here," MacArthur said.

Mrs. Robert E. Wood, wife of the head of the civic reception committee, handed Mrs. MacArthur a bouquet of red roses.

A 17 gun salute was fired. Then the general reviewed an honor guard—the 174th Military Police Battalion from Fort Sheridan.

Police Captain Walter Healy estimated the airport crowd at 5,000 persons. But they were only the vanguard of the welcoming army.

Trip Through Loop

MacArthur stepped into a coral red convertible automobile. Cars bearing other members of his party and civic leaders wheeled into line and the motorcade rolled off on a trip into and through the loop—a winding, 23 mile route.

Near Cicero avenue, motorcycle swung in beside the cavalcade. Mounted on the rear seat was an effigy of President Truman bearing a placard which said, "fire Truman, Acheson and Marshall."

From one of the motorcade cars, a shower of handbills was thrown. They urged election of MacArthur as president and James A. Farley for vice-president. The handbills were signed the American People's Organization, Inc., 127 N. Dearborn St., Chicago.

The procession was the first half of a MacArthur day double header. The general will be a guest of honor at a jamboree tonight in mammoth Soldier Field.

The city's millions and thousands from nearby cities were on hand for the ten hour civic tribute, expected to draw 3,000,000 spectators.

Death Takes News Editor Of Democrat

Miss Burrowes Succumbs; Funeral Friday Morning

Miss Rosemary Burrowes, news editor of the Sedalia Democrat, died Wednesday night at 10:45 in her home 700 West Fourth St. She suffered from a heart ailment. Miss Burrowes had been news editor for the past ten years and employed by the paper for about 35 years.

Miss Burrowes was the daughter of the late Evans Barkalow Burrowes and Mrs. Teresa Moore Burrowes. She was born in Sedalia, October 3, 1891. Her father for a long term of years was news editor of the Sedalia Democrat, which position she held in later years.

Surviving her are three brothers, Lon M. Burrowes, managing editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat; Arthur Burrowes, editor of the St. Joseph News-Press; and Mark W. Burrowes, city editor of the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram at Fort Worth, Tex. Two sisters, Mrs. Harry C. Reeder, of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. J. B. Wills, of Austin, Tex., also survive.

A brother, Evans Bernard Burrowes, who was in military service in World War II, died Saturday, January 25, 1947 at Wadsworth, Kas.

Miss Burrowes received her education in the Sacred Heart grade school and the old Sedalia high school, graduating in 1910, later attending Notre Dame de Scion academy in Marshall, Mo.

After her schooling period she taught public school at Old Franklin school in Sedalia and also at Olive Branch school north of Beaman, Mo.

Like other members of a newspaper family the lure of such a vocation prompted her to take a position on the Sedalia Democrat where she had served ably until a heart ailment two years ago brought on attacks that forced her to be off duty intermittently.

She was possessed of a persistent desire to carry on her chosen work and even as late as last Friday came to the Democrat office to pursue the work in which she was so devoted and in which she spent the greater part of her life.

Miss Burrowes was a member of the Sacred Heart church; The Young Ladies Marian Sodality; a charter member of Business and Professional Women's club of Sedalia, in which she held many offices, and the Missouri Women's Writers Association.

Funeral Friday Morning

Funeral services will be held at the Sacred Heart church at 10 a. m. Friday, the Rev. A. J. Brunswick, pastor, to officiate.

Pallbearers will be Malachi O'Brien, William B. Hert, Jr., Cline Cain, Julian H. Bagby, John Joseph McGrath and George H. Scruton.

The Democrat-Capital offices will be closed during the time of the funeral.

Members of the family here for the last rites include Lon M. Burrowes of St. Louis, Mark W. Burrowes, Fort Worth; Mrs. Arthur V. Burrowes and children, Miss Mary Helen Burrowes and Arthur Burrowes, Jr.

A sister of Miss Burrowes, Mrs. Harry C. Reeder of Beverly Hills, and other relatives in California are unable to make the trip here owing to recent illnesses and a brother, Arthur V. Burrowes, who is recovering from an illness of several weeks in a St. Joseph hospital, will be unable to be here.

The body of Miss Burrowes is at the McLaughlin chapel.

The rosary will be recited there at 8:15 p. m. today.

Delaying Action Is Fought By The Allies In Western Korea

Last Foothold in That Area North Of 38th Parallel Abandoned Today

By Olen Clements

TOKYO, Friday, April 27 — (AP) — United Nations troops on the west-central Korean front withdrew again Thursday before Chinese Red masses. This extended their pullback in that sector to 27 miles in five days.

U. N. stragglers fired artillery at pointblank range to hold back 300,000 Reds pressing toward Seoul.

The new withdrawal wiped out every western front U.N. foothold north of the 38th Parallel.

But the Allies still are in North Korea along the Hwachon reservoir on the eastern end of the 100-mile front. They beat back Red attacks on both sides of the reservoir Thursday.

The western withdrawal from above the parallel began at midday, as Chinese advanced within 20 miles of Seoul.

Eighth army headquarters said the Allied troops were "fighting a magnificent delaying action."

Munsan To Chinese

Munsan fell to Chinese driving down a main highway from the northwest. The town, 21 miles from the war-battered capital, was the site of an American paratroop landing last month.

Fifteen miles to the east, Red masses surged across 38 and down the Yonchon-Uijongbu road leading to Seoul. Allies pulled back south of Changgo, four miles below the border and 15 miles north of Uijongbu.

Chinese tried to knife down an undefended strip between this highway and Munsan. Heavy artillery fire ripped into them throughout Thursday.

The U. N. withdrawal toward Uijongbu yielded about six miles to the Reds—their biggest gain of the day. It almost wiped out the western side of the Kapyong bulge in the center of the 100 mile front.

Slow withdrawals were made in the bulge, about 30 miles northeast of Seoul. One U.N. unit counterattacked, but was ordered to fall back to a new defense line.

Yanggu Still Held

A slow withdrawal also was begun to the northeast in the Hwachon-Yanggu salient. This sector in Red Korea had held steady since the Communist spring offensive opened up Sunday night. Yanggu, on the eastern end of the 30-mile salient, was still in Allied hands.

Most withdrawals were made in the daylight after Allied forces had held steady against Red night-time probing attacks.

Eighth army divisions in the west were generally falling back well ahead of the Chinese masses. The terrific fire power of American artillery and Allied planes protected the rear of withdrawing columns.

But one unit surrounded by onrushing Chinese was caught in a trap northwest of Uijongbu. There was no word from this unit late Thursday.

Field reports said it was cut off by at least three Chinese divisions. An armored task force broke through and rescued at least 100 men. It was feared the unit's losses might be high.

Other previously encircled units —Turkish, Belgian and Australian —had hacked their way out with relatively light casualties.

Red Losses Heavy

Red losses were placed at close to 30,000 in unofficial estimates. Heavy smoke and haze shrouding the battle area cut the aerial toll. Nevertheless, marine and Fifth air force pilots reported they accounted for at least 550 Reds Thursday. This is about half their normal count.

Behind the screen of aerial and artillery fire, dusty columns of U. N. troops rolled toward Seoul.

"Oh well," one veteran commented, "we'll fight our way back

Building Support For The Policies of Clement Attlee

By Dewitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Britain's Prime Minister Attlee has spiked, at least temporarily, the guns of the left-wing rebellion in his Socialist party led by Aneurin Bevan against the national rearmament program as agreed to with Washington.

The Socialist high command—the national executive—yesterday overruled Bevan's objections and declared firm support for Mr. Attlee's policies.

A short time later Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, speaking at a luncheon of the American Chamber of Commerce in London, pledged that Britain would cut its standard of living before slashing the rearmament program. This touched a high point of drama, since the nation for many years has been living under a program of fierce austerity.

This revolt of left wingers under Bevan was—as explained in a previous column—really part and parcel of a campaign to swing the Socialist party as a whole further left. Bevan, powerful labor leader, resigned his important cabinet position as minister of labor in protest against the rearmament program.

Bevan and his followers charged that Britain couldn't rearm as quickly as America wanted her to. They contended also that U. S. A. was using so many raw materials for her own rearmament that Britain couldn't get what she needed to avoid economic chaos.

Grievance of Bevan

Bevan declared heatedly that this program was detrimental to the Socialist welfare state. One of his main grievances was that the government proposed to charge the public in part for false teeth and glasses, whereas these things have been free.

This money raising expedient was among the provisions of the new budget which is now before the House of Commons. Bevan made much of it in his sensational resignation, which was followed by that of Harold Wilson, presi-

Up to Reds as To Spread of Korean War

President Not Comment as to Any Bombing

WASHINGTON, April 26 — (AP) —President Truman said today it is up to the Communists to choose between spreading the Korean war or seeking a peaceful settlement.

He did not elaborate and he specifically refused comment at a news conference on reports that Lt. Gen. Matthew Ridgeway has authority to bomb Manchuria if he deems it necessary.

But Mr. Truman's assertion that the choice of peace or a greater war is up to the Communists left open the interpretation that the United Nations forces would strike back outside Korea if large enemy air forces enter the fighting.

(A U. S. spokesman at the United Nations in Lake Success, N. Y., said yesterday the United States has proposed the bombing of Red bases in Manchuria if the Communists launch heavy air attacks.)

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's insistence that the enemy should be hit in what he called its Manchurian "sanctuary" was among the policy differences which led President Truman to dismiss the Far Eastern commander.

Experts For a Curb on Dope

Addiction Spreads To Young, Crime Body is Told

JEFFERSON CITY, April 26—(AP)—Dope addiction is spreading among young people but the state can step in and do something about it, the Senate crime committee was told last night.

Two experts told the committee that controlling the narcotics traffic is primarily a federal job. But the state can do these things to plug loopholes not covered by the federal law.

1. Make dope addiction a minor crime so the addicts can be committed to state hospitals for treatment and cure. They would stay on probation until cured, which might take six months to a year. Some states already do this.

2. Set up a narcotics squad in the state highway patrol to help local officers.

3. Make theft of narcotics from a hospital, doctor's office or drug store a more serious crime.

Voice Support To Increase in School Tax

Kiwanis Members Pledge it at a Luncheon Today

Members of the Sedalia Kiwanis club pledged their individual support of the tax increase to be voted upon at a special school election May 10, when a resolution to that effect was presented to the club by Henry Salveter and Howard Roberts at the meeting in Bothwell hotel Thursday noon.

In expressing their approval the members indicated they were convinced it is necessary for the Board of Education to obtain additional funds for the operation and maintenance of the Sedalia Public school system for the ensuing year if the minimum required standards are to be met; that the increase in the tax rate of 75c on the $100 valuation will provide only sufficient funds to meet the minimum standards for the coming year.

This action followed an explanatory talk on education problems in our school system by Harold W. Barrick.

Daniel Drew of the Drew Corporation, general contractors, became a new member, inducted by Bert Hathaway and L. M. Lavelle.

Almost 29,000 At Office Of Employment

Total of 1,336 Given Jobs In Year of 1950

Nearly 29,000 persons visited the Sedalia office of the Missouri Division of Employment Security during 1950, Leon M. Hall, manager, revealed. The actual count was 28,682.

Hall reported 3,542 persons filed new applications for work and 1,697 filed first claims for unemployment insurance benefits. The latter group returned two or more times to file 479 additional claims. This remaining number, he said, visited the office to obtain information on jobs, on unemployment insurance or for other reasons.

Weeks of unemployment compensated by insurance for the 1,697 claimants totaled 10,454, he said, and the amount paid in these claims was $161,344 for an average weekly benefit check of $15.43.

Cumulative benefits to the Sedalia area economy as a result of these unemployment insurance payments, therefore, can be estimated as approximately $1½ million. This figure is arrived at on the well-based assumption that every dollar spent in retail trade multiplies 10 times as it passes through the line of wholesalers, manufacturers, suppliers and labor.

Placed On Jobs

Job placements, according to Hall, totaled 1,336, of which 84 were agricultural. Of the 2,224 persons referred to 1,644 non-agricultural job openings, 936 were women and 311 were veterans. Hired as a result of these referrals, 640 women, 169 veterans and 45 physically handicapped persons were placed in gainful employment during the year.

The average number of persons seeking work through the Sedalia employment office each month during the year was 297, of which 136 were women, he said.

"Our office," Hall added, "is established to assist workers and employers alike without fees. We are a community organization, geared to provide services needed by all persons. We are an effective job exchange offering specialized services to business and industry as well as to job applicants and others, entitled, under the law, to unemployment insurance benefits."

dent of the Board of Trade, and John Freeman, financial secretary at the war office.

The severity of the rebuke to Bevan by the national executive is seen in the fact that he and his followers have been an influential section of the executive. The Bevan bloc is said to have battled bitterly to prevent the executive from approving the proposed budget which provides for the rearmament.

What Bevan's next step will be is a question of international interest. It can hardly be expected that he will abandon his fight because of this initial setback, since his ultimate objective goes far beyond the argument over rearmament. As already remarked, he is credited with being out to swing the country further to the left in the interests of a welfare state.

Here it should be said there is no evidence that this swing aims at communism. There is some communism in Britain, but it isn't a major issue.

Some political observers hold that Bevan is after leadership of the labor (Socialist) party now held by Prime Minister Attlee. That being so Bevan would be expected to proceed with much care, not only because Attlee is the shrewd chief of a strong following but because a grave infraction of party loyalty wouldn't be forgiven by the rank and file, and might bring expulsion by the national executive.

Actually Bevan and his followers are said to have pledged themselves to try to maintain the Attlee government in power. However, the fierceness with which the political pot is boiling leads observers to expect a general election before long, perhaps in autumn.

The conservatives, under leadership of former prime minister Winston Churchill, are rubbing their hands in anticipation of victory. And that might happen, because Attlee's party came to power with a slender majority to which temporarily dissatisfied conservatives had contributed considerably.

Propose Public Health Units

WASHINGTON, April 26—(AP)—The Federal Security agency suggests setting up 38 local public health units to serve Missouri's 114 counties.

A minimum of 78 physicians and 749 nurses to staff these health units is proposed by the agency.

It issued a report this week designed to show how regional planning would enable general hospitals and local health departments to work together for better health in every community.

Administrator Oscar Ewing of the agency said the report is intended as a guide rather than a blueprint.

He added, however, that the study can enable health officers, hospital planners and state and local administrators "to visualize how a coordinated pattern of hospitals and health departments could fit their own needs and make possible a superior type of health protection for citizens of their communities.

The agency explained the proposed health unit areas as mapped out in the study are designed to serve a population of not less than 35,000 persons and are drawn to fit the pattern of existing or proposed hospitals and health centers.

Units suggested for Missouri counties they would serve and the recommended number of physicians and nurses listed in that order include:

Johnston OKs 6-Cent Raise For Railmen

Boost Effects One-Million Men, All Non-Operators

WASHINGTON, April 26—(AP)—The government poked a hole in its own wage ceiling Wednesday.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston approved a six-cent hourly increase for a million non-operating railroad workers to offset a cost of living rise.

They would have been entitled to only two or three cents if the government's ten per cent ceiling on wage increases had been applied tightly.

But an "escalator" clause in their contract called for the six cents, because living costs had gone up.

Johnson Bows To Panel

Johnston bowed to the arguments of a three-man panel that collective bargaining in the railroad industry is "unique" and requires special handling. It takes longer to negotiate a contract because of "lengthy and cumbersome" procedures of the Railway Labor Act, said the panel, which was appointed by Johnston at President Truman's suggestion.

The million non-operating workers—clerks, mechanics, etc—will begin receiving their six-cents hike next month. The increase becomes effective as of April 1, and all of the April boost will be added to May pay envelopes as rapidly as accounting machines can do the job, a spokesman for the carriers said.

Raise To Cost 129½-Million

The railroads estimate that the six-cent increase will cost them $129,600,000 a year.

But the Johnston action, first in which he has permitted a boost above the ten per cent allowed under the stabilization formula, poses two immediate questions:

1. How will it affect the wage-hour dispute of the four operating railroad unions—the firemen, engineers, conductors, and trainmen, who are still deadlocked after two years of trying to negotiate contracts? The roads were seized by the army last August to avert a nationwide strike of the trainmen and conductors.

Effect To Touch Other Cases

2. How will it affect other wage cases awaiting the establishment of a new wage stabilization board, a new 18-man agency authorized to handle certain types of disputes as well as wage matters, should be set up by next week One of the first decisions it will have to make will be whether to raise the ten per cent ceiling.

The special railroad panel which made the recommendation leading to today's wage increase consisted of William M. Leiserson, Lloyd K. Garrison and Frank M. Swacker.

Mobile Telephone Helps Hospitalized Vets

NEW YORK —(AP)— The 'telecart,' a mobile telephone, now makes it possible for bedridden veterans, who could not otherwise make or receive calls, to keep in touch with the folks back home.

The new device, which resembles a teacart with a telephone on top, was developed by the New York Telephone Co., for use in veterans' hospitals. The machine, first tried out in 1945, was standardized in 1949.

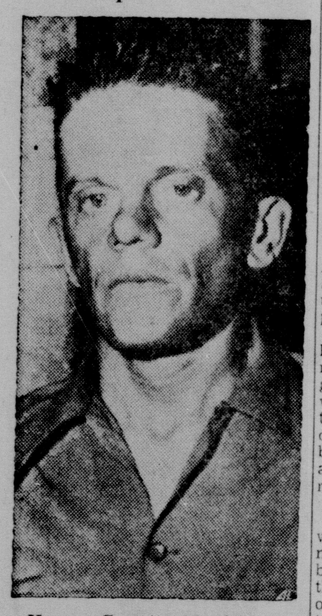

When a bed-ridden patient wants to make or receive a call, the telecart is moved by a hospital attendant to his bedside and connected by a long cord to the nearest telephone outlet installed in the wall. The portable phone is equipped to hold an incoming call until the patient is ready to receive it.

Fire Damages Car

The rear cushion of a 1948 Oldsmobile coach, owned by Mrs. Betty Human of Smithton, ignited sometime Wednesday night and received about $100 damages.

The cause of the fire was undetermined since all of the windows were rolled up and the doors locked. The fire was reported at 10:55 p. m.

Red Infiltrate Calcutta Dockworkers

NEW DELHI—(AP)—Communist infiltration has been discovered in both the Calcutta Dock Workers Union and the Calcutta Seamen's Union, India's transport minister told a questioner in parliament here.

The labor groups are under socialist leadership at the present time. A third organization, the Calcutta Dockers Union, is affiliated with the government-sponsored Indian National Trade Uniion Congress.

Pakistan Plans Grain Export

KARACHI — (AP) — Pakistan plans foodgrains exports totalling 246,000 tons of wheat and 320,000 tons of rice in 1951.

MELBOURNE —(AP)— Australians drank more beer, smoked more cigarettes, and ate more chocolates last year than ever before. In 1950, the Australians:

Drank 156,000,000 gallons of beer. Smoked 37,800,000 pounds of tobacco. Ate 80,000,000 pounds of chocolate.

GOP Demands All-Out Check Of Dismissal

WASHINGTON, April 26—(AP)—The Senate Republican policy committee has called for an "all-out" investigation of foreign and military policies linked with the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters the GOP group wants an inquiry into policies as far back as the 1945 Yalta conference, with special emphasis on what he called the administration's "encouragement of Chinese Communists."

Ferguson Resolution Held

To get such an inquiry, Taft said, the Republicans will hold in abeyance a resolution by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) for a joint Senate-House investigation while they watch developments in hearings to be opened May 3 by the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees.

MacArthur will be the first witness and Taft said the Republicans will demand that hearings be public. Senator Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the two-committee inquiry, has said he'd rather the hearings would be closed.

No Objection To TV

In New York, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's spokesman, said the five-star general has no objection to public hearings or to being televised.

Taft said the Republicans will ask Russell to add four members of the Senate appropriations subcommittee, dealing with armed services afafirs, to the present 26-member armed services-foriegn foreign relations group.

Japanese Finds Singapore Friendly

SINGAPORE —(AP)— H. Kitahara, the first Japanese civilian to enter Singapore since the end of the war, said he found no anti-Japanese feeling in this British crown colony. Kitahara came here early in April as an observer for the Japanese Ministry of International Trade and Industry at the discussions of the Southeast Asia consultative committee on the world rice supply and demand situation.

Kitahara said he walked about Singapore freely and no one tried to molest him. He was a guest of prominent members of the Indian community at a dinner. Those attending included the Indian and Australian trade commissioners.

THE MOST IMPORTANT NEWSPAPER IN THE WORLD

A Missourian recently returned from New York City tells us this story:

"While in New York, I was taken on a tour through the offices and plant of the New York Times. It was a marvelous experience. But when they asked me how it compared with the newspaper in my home town, I told them there really wasn't any comparison . . . because the newspaper in my home town was more important—to me."

And we agree with this discerning Missourian. There is no more important newspaper in the world than the one that carries the news of your local community and the activities of friends, the stimulating comment of your local editor and the advertising messages of community merchants.

More than that . . . it is the vigorous, free expression of thousands of home town newspapers that provides an all-important bulwark to American democracy.

Support your local newspaper. It is for the community and of the community—an institution devoted to your best interests and to the best interests of your friends and neighbors.

Missouri's business-managed water, gas and electric utilities pay tribute to our local newspapers. The nearly 30,000 of us are proud of them and of the part we have played in providing utility services that have helped our state to grow and prosper. Plentiful electricity, gas and water are now available for further growth or for Missouri's contribution to national defense.

Nervous, Run Down Housewife Now Sings at Her Work
HADACOL Relieves Fatigue and Nervousness When Caused by a Lack of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron

It's not easy to get your housework done pleasant, when every little noise grates on your nerves. By the end of the day you're so tired, frazzled, and at your wit's end, life seems hardly worthwhile. This is just what happened to Mrs. C. M. Moody, 940 Hinton Street, Petersburg, Virginia. She'd heard about HADACOL, however, heard how it could help nervousness, when due to a lack of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron. She decided to try this wonderful formula and see if it could give her the same help it had so many other folks she knew. The results of this test speak for themselves. Won't you let her tell you about it in her own words?

She says: "I was so nervous and rundown, could not stand the least noise. So, I tried HADACOL, and, after my first large bottle, I am lots better. Thanks to HADACOL I can now sing at my work. I cannot praise HADACOL enough and you bet I recommend HADACOL to all my friends and neighbors. You may use my letter if you like. I will be truly thankful if my letter helps someone else. So, thanks to HADACOL I am feeling fine."

That's how the story goes, over and over again from honest, sincere folks like Mrs. Moody. You just can't doubt what you hear and read about so often. So if you are subject to nervousness, fatigue, that run down feeling, when due to a lack of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron, why don't you give HADACOL a chance to help.

For it is just such deficiencies that HADACOL has been especially compounded to overcome. These vital elements, plus helpful quantities of Phosphorus and Calcium, are in a special liquid form already dissolved, for quick, sure absorption in your system.

Try it today...you, too, will be saying that only HADACOL gives you the "Wonderful Hadacol Feeling!" You don't risk a penny to find out what it can do for you, because HADACOL is covered by a strict money-back guarantee. Recommended by many doctors, too. At your druggist: Only $1.25 for the trial size; only $3.50 for the large economy family size.

Red China Smuggles "Officially"

SINGAPORE —(AP)— Red China has gone into the smuggling business to pay for purchases of rubber, tin and other vital commodities in Singapore, say officers of the freighter Hoi Houw.

The ship, arrived from Hong Kong, said revenue officers there had found 300 taels of gold worth more than $1,000,000 in the engine-room of the Hoi How two hours before she was due to sail for Singapore. This was the second large illegal consignment of gold seized in the Hoi Houw in the 18 months she has been in Far Eastern waters.

Ship's officers said these large consignments of gold were beyond the province of ordinary Chinese seamen. They added it had led Hong Kong authorities to believe that it was the work of a powerful smuggling ring operating from Red China via Hong Kong.

Australian Wool Shearers In the Money

SYDNEY —(AP)— Despite a sudden fall in the price of wool sold at auction in March, the price of Australia's most important product still is a lot more than it was a year ago.

Recent agreements between employer and employee organizations give expert shearers and woolclassers the chance to make up to $222 a week. New rate for shearers is $17 for 100 sheep. That should give an average shearer $88 a week.

Beef Supplement In Lakes and Streams

MADISON, Wis. —(AP)— A University of Wisconsin scientist has proposed that in time of emergency the nation's lakes and streams be used as an accessory to pasture and rangeland for the production of food protein.

Prof. Arthur D. Hasler, aquatic biologist who last year announced the finding that small, brown-water bog lakes could be turned into rainbow trout and bass producers by the addition of proper amounts of lime, has calculated that at least 50 to 75 pounds of fish per acre could be harvested annually from these lakes.

Reclaimed bog lakes made into trout and bass producers would, acre for acre, be nearly as productive as the northern Wisconsin pastureland is of beef, Hasler said. Such lakes would be more productive of edible fish on a pounds-per-acre basis than the average lake used for sport fishing.

Professor Hasler says that other Wisconsin scientists, have found that the 10 amino acids essential for human nutrition are found as abundantly in canned fish as in canned meat. The result of this study indicates that "the heat treatment during canning makes little change in the amount of the 10 amino acids studied."

Delaying Action is Being Fought by the Allies In Western Korea

by June and then we'll retreat again in September."

The roads down which they moved were lined with relics of previous battles in the see-saw war. There were indications indefensible Seoul would be given up to the Reds for the third time.

U. N. officers in the west said they had the power to check the Reds, just as they halted the Communists in the center after a big breakthrough early in the offensive.

The center line had held solidly until realignments began Thursday.

Communist night attacks were broken almost before they were started. Huge searchlights turned night into day, exposing the Reds.

To the northeast, searchlights at the western end of Hwachon reservoir caught 1,000 Reds marching down a road.

"The area lighted up like Coney Island," the official report said. Then the artillery let loose.

"The wall of fire stopped the Chinese in their tracks," the report said. "Not one round of infantry fire was necessary."

Communist patrols probed the UN defense line through the night. They found the allies strongly placed on mountain ranges along the bulge.

There were sharp fights under the lights of star shells. But Thursday morning a staff officer reported the UN line had not given up a single yard during the night.

The 14-nation UN force was intact on all fronts. Its spirit was high, its firepower terrific.

On the east, allied troops prepared to meet a new assault by Korean Reds. The communists were regrouping and building up their assault forces east of Hwachon reservoir.

In the west the allied withdrawal was orderly.

The Chinese were trying to drive onto the Seoul road network from two directions and trap allied units falling back down the Uijongbu corridor. This corridor leads to Seoul from the north.

The Kapyong bulge is to the east of this corridor. The foot of the bulge reaches to about four miles north of Kapyong. The town is a key point on the Chunchon-Seoul highway.

A delayed dispatch from AP correspondent Jim Becker disclosed that the U. S. First Marine division is fighting in this east-central area. (Presumably the Marines are along the east flank of the U-shape bulge, stretching northward toward Hwachon reservoir.)

At one time Red mortar fire poured down on the Leatherneck division command post.

Every Marine went into action when it was learned the Reds had swept through on the left flank and were threatening the command post from the rear. Red machine guns were within a few hundred yards of the command post.

The Marine attitude at the height of this scrap was summed up by one Leatherneck:

"If they surround us I sure feel sorry for those dumb bastards."

UN air forces maintained their 'round-the-clock sweeps over the front and along Red supply lines. They have been flying more than 1,000 sorties (single flights) daily since the communists launched their offensive Sunday night.

Four Red jets ventured over North Korea Thursday. One was damaged by U. S. Shooting Stars before the MIGs escaped to Manchuria.

B. Frank Rhodes Is Found Dead

B Frank Rhodes, 66, 515 South Engineer, a retired Missouri Pacific employee, took his life this afternoon shortly before 1:30 with a 32 caliber revolver, in a shed back of his home, according to acting coroner Dr J. R. Rodeman.

Mr. Rhodes' housekeeper for 20 years, Mrs. Etta Hurtt, was cleaning a clothes hamper in the home when, according to her statement, she heard a noise in the shed behind the house next to the alley. She sent her daughter, Mrs. Goldie Wootan, 610 West Sixth street, who was spending the day with her, to see what Mr. Rhodes was doing. Mrs. Wootan went to the door of the shed and called to him. When she received no answer she opened the door and found him on his back with the revolver beside him.

Police and Mr. Rhodes' physician, Dr. Joseph W. Maunders, were called and then the Gillespie ambulance Dr. Maunders stated that Mr. Rhodes had been in poor health, but to his knowledge, had been in good spirits.

Dr. Rodeman, who acted for the coroner Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher attending a medical convention, stated an inquest was unnecessary.

Mr. Rhodes, until his retirement a year ago, was employed in the tool department at the Missouri Pacific shops. Since retirement he had worked as a wallpaper cleaner.

The body was taken to the McLaughlin funeral chapel. No arrangements have been made pending arrival of relatives from out of town.

Experts For a Curb on Dope

visor at Kansas City for the federal bureau of narcotics, told why enforcement is tough: Enough heroin to make 400 doses — more than $1,000 worth — can be hidden in a cigarette package.

Forced to Crime

He said federal agents can't control the addicts. They have to concentrate on the dealers who handle non-tax paid dope.

But catching and curing the addicts is important because "sooner or later all of them are forced into crime to get money to buy their drugs."

James W. Conner, director of the St. Louis crime commission, sounded the same warning. Since narcotics addiction "impoverishes and demoralizes the addict," he has to go out and steal to get the $15 a day he needs to buy his heroin.

"And there is a tremendous danger he will commit crimes of violence."

Discussing gambling, Conner said he had a "strong suspicion" that gamblers and racketeers driven from East St. Louis were moving into Jefferson and St. Louis counties in Missouri.

Oatis Arrested By The Czechs

dominated countries. It can mean anything from espionage down to spreading propaganda. Thus, almost any penalty could be imposed.

Western reporters said Bedrich Runge, assistant chief of the Czech foreign ministry press section, refused to elaborate on these charges against Oatis. They said Runge, who telephoned the information about the arrest to Thompson, replied to correspondents' questions with this remark: "Consult your consciences and you will know whether you are doing right or wrong."

Western sources in Prague said the arrest of Oatis may be designed as part of a propaganda barrage to set the stage for the trial of Vladimir Clementis, former Czech foreign minister, who has been arrested on charges of being disloyal to Moscow — being a Titoist — and spying for the West.

Thompson said he asked permission to see Oatis and was told by Runge that no other information could be given about the correspondent, who may be held in grim Pankrac prison.

Robert Bigio of Reuters, commented:

"It seemed to observers here that the authorities regarded the case as too serious to be solved by his (Oatis') immediate expulsion, as happened to other American correspondents. The charge of 'gathering and disseminating information considered secret by Czechoslovakia' stood as a serious warning to the three western journalists — one British, one French and one American — still left in Prague."

The other two western correspondents accredited in Prague are Russell Jones of the United Press and Gaston Fournier of the French press agency, the latter at present is out of the country.

Six other western correspondents have been expelled from Prague in the last 18 months. Two of Oatis' predecessors, Richard Kasischke and Nathan Polowetzky of the Associated Press, were expelled from Prague on charges of "unobjective reporting," which were not documented by the Czech government, but Oatis is the first American or western journalist to be arrested in Prague in the three years that this country has been under complete Communist domination. He had been under threat of expulsion for several months.

Oatis is the first American to be arrested by the Czech Communists since Samuel Meryan, a U. S. embassy clerk, was jailed in 1949 on charges of spying. Meryan was released after strong representations by U. S. authorities, but was expelled from the country.

The belief among western sources is that Oatis' Czech employes, who vanished mysteriously one by one, were arrested to prepare the way for the case against the bureau chief.

Call For Billions In Taxes

increases from being reflected in rises in the cost of living."

In the field of credit control, Mr. Truman asked for authority to regulate terms "on the sale of existing houses, as well as new ones."

The government now fixes down payments and other terms for sale of new houses but older dwellings are not under the regulation. These rules are aimed to prevent would-be buyers from bidding up the price of new homes offered at easy terms.

On taxes, the President repeated his earlier requests for an increase this year of "at least" $10,000,000,000.

The government's present price ceilings and other economic controls are imposed under authority given in the defense production act which Congress enacted last year.

The law expires in June. Mr. Truman's message was first of all a request for its extension and second a listing of the changes he wants in it.

What He Proposes

He recommended:

1. Extension of the defense production act until June 30, 1953.

2. That the government by authorized "to build and operate defense plants, where necessary, to produce essential materials and equipment."

3. Permission to use "differential subsidies to obtain essential production from high-cost sources of supply without increasing price ceilings."

(Such subsidies — government payments from tax revenues—could be used, for instance, to encourage operation of low-yield mines producing essential metals.)

4. Provision for controls over credit on existing housing, "and regulation of speculative trading on commodity exchanges."

5. Freezing the parity price for each farm commodity as of the beginning of its marketing season to be used for price control purposes throughout the marketing season.

6. Stronger means to enforce price control regulations.

7. Authority for more effective control "over both residential and commercial rents, wherever needed to stabilize the cost of living and the cost of doing business."

The President said that "most important of all, we must increase taxes quickly and adequately—paying for government expenditures as we go, through a fair tax program."

In addition to taxes, he listed these points as needed for "an anti-inflation program that will work."

1. "We must increase personal savings-dollars saved now are subtracted from the buying power pushing prices upwards, and will be available later when more consumer goods will be produced.

2. "We must reduce borrowing and buying on credit for non-defense purposes — by consumer and businessmen—since borrowed money adds to the pressure on prices.

3. "We must have fair ceilings on prices, including the prices of farm products, and on rents, in order to stabilize the cost of living during the defense period, to hold down 'he cost of the defense program to the taxpayers and to prevent profiteering.

4. "We must stabilize wages and salaries at fair levels, to restrain excessive consumer demand and to prevent rising business costs from forcing price increases."

Mr. Truman said the present rent control law, which expires June 30 "is entirely inadequate to meet the inflationary pressure which will confront us in the coming months."

He said the reopening of military camps and other installations has brought "great pressures" on housing accommodations near such bases, and in some cases "a shocking incerase in rents."

"It is one's own business, of course, how one has oneself disfigured," the paper went on. "But the time wasted on such titivations and the thought of the reserves of labor that are still unused are something to think about."

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALL AMERICANS!

We're playing for keeps now!

Once again, American free enterprise is called on to save our freedom.

For one thing, this means all-out production by the nation's industries. And electricity provides the driving power for that production.

Thank goodness businessmen of the electric power companies have been building up the supply of Reddy Kilowatt Power since World War II at the greatest rate in history.

Today the electric industry is ready with nearly twice the power supply available ten years ago.

The U. S. has enough electricity for all plants to go to three shifts a day. Yes—the country's electric industry is prepared.

Reddy Kilowatt

In the areas served by the Missouri Public Service Company, there is plenty of electricity with which to meet anticipated needs—civilian as well as mobilization. There is no shortage of electric power here.

America Is Strong . . It's Electrified!

Tigers Win Tri-Meet For Fifth Straight

The Smith-Cotton high school track squad survived its toughest test of the outdoor season Wednesday afternoon by winning the Columbia triangular meet over the Hannibal Pirates and the Columbia Kewpies. The Bengals amassed a total of 73½ points in winning, while the Bucs from Hannibal registered 58½ for the runner-up position. The Columbians gathered only 17 tallies in finishing last.

The victory made it five straight for the Sedalians but Hannibal offered the strongest competition the Tigers had encountered in massing their winning skien. Lowell Bonifield lived-up to all expectations in the hurdles, winning both the highs and lows from rival George Simpson, from the famed Columbia hurdling family. Hannibal had a slight edge in the dashes, but over-all Bengal strength in the field events and distant runs counter-balanced the Pirate's advantage.

Smith-Cotton picked-up nine firsts and five seconds while Hannibal took the other five firsts and five seconds.

Warren Keene turned in his best effort of the year as he defeated the Columbia and Hannibal runners by a half lap. Keene was clocked at 4:46, his top timing of the year.

Don Decker cleared the high-jump at 5-feet-6 to take top honors. Decker tried for 5-8, but a muddy pit hampered his efforts.

Weightmen Win Easy

Weightmen Whitey Bryant and Herb Ford turned in good performances with the shot and discus. Bryant put the shot 46-feet-6 to win by four feet over team-mate Herb Ford who tossed the 12-pound ball 42-feet-7 inches. In the discus Ford hit the 129-feet-11 mark, which was his best effort of the year. He was followed by team-mate Bob Shawver.

Richard Stephans han a 2:12 half mile, edging Pabst of Hannibal by five yards. Stephans ran a losing 2:08.9 mile at Kemper against Warterfield but didn't need to go all out Wednesday.

Skip Schulz, pole vaulter, reached the 10-foot-1 mark. This height bettered his 9-foot-11 mark at Warrensburg Monday.

Chester O'Bannon sprinted the last 100-yards in the 440 to defeat Gibon of Hannibal.

Pummill Upsets McCrary

Don Pummill upset team-mate Bill "Gabby" McCrary in the broad-jump by leaping 20-feet-2½ beating McCrary by 1½ inches.

The Tigers 880-yard relay team fell to a swift Hannibal four-some which was clocked at 1:36.6. The Bangal's first runner, Jack Tope, got a good start but was forced to the outside lane at the first curve and trailed by 10 yards when he handed-off the baton. His teammates failed to regain the lead.

Bill Morgan anchored the mile-relay team to victory having been given a 20-yard lead by mates, Warren Keene, Chester O'Bannon and Don Decker. The locals received a real break when Hannibal's Harry Renick fell to the cinders as he prepared to hand-off after he and O'Bannon finished in a dead heat on the first 440.

Pros Draft 86 College Stars For Cage Loop

NEW YORK, April 26 — (AP) — Eighty-six college basketball stars, headed by All-Americas Gene Melchiorre and Sam Ranzino, were drafted Wednesday by the ten teams in the National Basketball association.

Melchiorre, a 5-8 ball of fire from Bradley, was the No. 1 pick of Baltimore, which had first choice in the regular draft. Ranzino, tenth-ranking scorer among the major colleges last season, was the No. 1 selection of the Rochester Royals, league champions.

Other first choices were:

Tri-Cities—Mel Hutchins, Brigham Young; Indianapolis—Marcus Freiberger, Oklahoma; Fort Wayne—Zeke Sinicola, Niagara; Syracuse—John McConathy, Northwest Louisiana; New York—Ed Smith, Harvard;

Boston—Ernie Barrett, Kansas State; Philadelphia—Don Sunderlage, Illinois; Minneapolis—Meyer (Mhitey) Skoog, Minnesota.

Skoog actually was the first collegian to be drafted. Each team was given the privilege of choosing any one player in its own territory. Onstead of its No. 1 pick the regular draft. All teams, with the exception of Minneapolis which selected Skoog, passed.

The teams picked in inverst order to their finish in the sandings during the regula rseason. Thus the picking order wa sBaltimore, Tri-Cities, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Syracuse, New York, Boston, Rochester, Philadelphia and Minneapolis.

The three other voters of the Associated Press, All-America, Kentucky's Bill Spivey, Kansas' Clyde Lovellette, and Temple's Boll Mlkvy, are juniors and could not be drafted.

Hutchins was the most valuable player in the annual East-West college All-Star game while Sunderlage was the Big Ten's most valuable player. Hutchins' teammate, Roland Minson, was pickek by the New York kincks. Manson was named most valuable in the National invitation tournament.

• Sport Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, April 26—(AP)—Answer quick: When is football in season? . . . Well, tomorrow night there are at least two games scheduled that would rate pretty high on the schedule even in October — Syracuse vs. Holy Cross and Cincinnati vs. Dayton. . . . These aren't just intra squad contests, which are a dime a dozen at this time of the year, or informal scrimmages between teams. They are real contests, with about 10,000 cash customers expected and considerable ballyhoo from the publicity departments. . . . And you should hear the moans from coaches in such conferences as the Big Ten, where "outside" competition is limited strictly to regular season games. They would like to have their boys get that experience. . . . Also tomorrow night Texas Tech coach Dewitt Weaver would give a lot if he could use the talent that will be on the field. Listed to attend Tech's squad game are Sammy Baugh, Bobby Layne, Mal Kutner, Glenn Davis, Wade Walker and Jack Mitchell.

The Biggie Question

It isn't unusual for football players to find themselves in strange positions during a scrimmage. . . . And Michigan State end coach Earle Edwards has been predicting all spring that some of the boys would invent a new play just by getting their assignmets tangled on some of the many formations head coach Biggie Munn uses. . . . So the other day a pileup of athletes slowly unscrambled to reveal the bottom-most pair with their arms wrapped around each other in what looked like a most affectionate clinch. . . . Munn, who admires perfection more than affection, looked down from his observation tower and shouted: "How long have you two been going steady?"

Shorts And Shells

Even the governor of Delaware is getting steamed up over his state's Derby candidate, Repetorie and respectfully asks newsmen to mention that the colt represents Delaware. . . . The pictures of Joe Louis' fights which used to hang in Mike Jacobs' Rumson, N. J., home now adorn the walls of the Rumson barber shop. . . . Chicago's West Beuttler, who has sold some 10,000 of his ten-in-one "miracle" golf clubs, is planning a one-club tournament at a Catskill resort this summer. He promises there'll be no dumping. . . Nolen Richardson, former Tigers, Yankees and Reds player and owner of an Athens, Ga., clothing store, took over coaching the U. of Georgia baseball team this spring. His son, Clifford Nolen, Jr., is a candidate for the golf team, although he starred in high school and Legion baseball.

Cleaning the Cuff

The U. of Tulsa already is beating the All-America drums for Jim Prewitt, a 240-pound tackle from Smackover, Ark., and halfback Jake Roberts. . . . The publicity department lists Prewitt as an amateur boxer, quail hunter and story teller, besides being a heck of a football player and Roberts merely as a halfback who wants to be an undertaker. . . .

Two atom smashers currently are being employed by Notre Dame physicists on separate projects Soon as Jerry Groom graduates, he can make it three.

CYCLONIC CYCLE—Encased in a streamlined shell, Wilhelm Hertz, 39, flies down the super highway from Munich to Nuernberg, Germany, on a specially-constructed motorcycle at the record-breaking speed of 180 miles-an-hour. The former mark, set in 1937, was 173.5. (NEA)

Money From Sky

SINGAPORE — (AP) — It rains dollars in Malaya. Amateur pilots of the Royal Singapore Flying club have dropped payrolls worth more than $10,000,000 from their little single-engined Tiger Moth planes to rubber estates in South Johore.

Not a 10-cent piece bounced wide of the dropping zones since this method of "pay-off" started after a state of emergency was proclaimed in the war against Communist terrorists in Malaya on June 1, 1948.

GOA Battles Rice Scourge

GOA, Portuguese India—(AP)—Authorities have made special stocks of insecticides available throughout Goa to combat the pest "Bicho de Vangana," in time to save local rice crops. Recently enacted legislation has exempted certain insecticides from customs duty.

Poholsky in 2-Hitter Puts Cards at Top

By Jack Hand
Associated Press Sports Writer

What's wrong with this picture? Tom Poholsky pitches St. Louis Cards into first place — New York Giants sink into cellar with seventh straight loss.

This is the year the weary old Cards were supposed to fade away.. Wasn't their fifth place finish of last year the tipoff? With Manager Marty Marion on the inactive list, they were sure to be left in the starting gate.

Pennant talk flooded the Giants training camp at St. Petersburg.

But nothing is sure in baseball as Giant fans sadly are discovering. Nothing Leo Durocher does works.

St. Louis reflects enthusiasm for the stout complete game pitching of Poholsky, Max Lanier and Harry Brecheen who have allowed the enemy a total of two runs in the last 27 innings.

Marion was sure about Poholsky in Florida. As sure as a freshman manager can be about a rookie. He pitched him opening day, passing over the big names on his staff. Poholsky lost the opener but vindicated Marion's judgment last night with his two-hit 4-0 shutout of Pittsburgh.

Solly Hemus, Marion's shortstop replacement, drove home the first run and scored the second. Enos Slaughter nicked Cliff Chambers for his first homer in the sixth.

Ken Heintzelman snuffed out the Giants in the pinches to pitch Philadelphia past New York, 2-1. He gave eight hits and walked six but left 12 stranded. Twice the Giants loaded the bases with only one out.

The old home run ball, a Brooklyn Dodger hoodoo for years, rose up again to cost them a ball game. Sam Jethroe hit one into the seats with one on and two out in the ninth for a 6-5 Boston edge over reliefer Clyde King.

Ted Kluszewski deep in an early spring slump, snapped out of it with a two-run homer in the eighth for Cincinnati's 4-3 edge over the Chicago Cubs.

Spec Shea, New York Yankee star of 1947, was the big news in the American league with a four-hit, 4-0 shutout of Philadelphia. The big righthander walked five but left 10 A's stranded.

The Chicago White Sox split two with St. Louis, winning 8-6 but losing 7-4 in the second game. The Browns had lost 13 straight, including nine spring exhibitions, to the Sox before they won the second for reliefer Ned Garver.

DiMaggio Gives Arthur a Bat

NEW YORK, April 26—(AP)—Thirteen-year-old Arthur MacArthur probably will bat 1000 with every baseball-minded kid in America — he's been hobnobbing in the dressing room of the world champion New York Yankees.

The son of the general went to Yankee Stadium yesterday. Dan Topping, president of the Bronx Bombers, gave Arthur a Yankee cap and took him into the dressing room to meet the players before the Yankee-Athletics game.

The quiet, courteous Arthur lost his shy reserve for a moment after he saw an old friend, Joe DiMaggio. Arthur and Joe had met in Tokyo when DiMaggio and a group of ball players toured the Pacific military bases.

Joe gave the boy an autographed bat.

Arthur's eyes sparkled.

"Gee, for me?" he cried. "Gee, thanks!"

A few days ago, young Arthur hobnobbed with the Giants.

Derby Hopefuls

Battle Morn (top), Cain Hoy stables colt shown here with Jockey Ted Atkinson up, boosted himself into a prominent spot in Kentucky Derby calculations April 21 when he almost nipped Repetoire in the $49,800 Wood Memorial at Jamaica. Eddie Arcaro may pilot Battle Morn in the classic. Jumbo, (bottom) Hal Price Headley's hope for his first Kentucky victory in 30 years of trying, shown here with Hedley Woodhouse up, was probably named with the famous circus elephant in mind. He made a fine showing in the Jamaica Experimental Handicap No. 2 and his owner has high hopes for him. (AP Wirephoto)

Reds Fear P. O. Box 5000

KUALA LUMPUR—(AP)—There's a post office box number the Communist terrorists in Malaya fear. It is No. 5,000. Any mail for that box at any postal station goes to the police.

The police constantly are urging the public to use that address—to supply information about the activities and hideouts of Red terrorists.

Soviet Scientists Claim Tea-Vitamin Tie-Up

MOSCOW—(AP)—Soviet scientists say that tea has vitamin-like effects.

An article in the Academy of Sciences Herald stated that researchers of the biosynthesis laboratory of the Bakh Institute of Biochemistry have conclusively proved that the tannin of tea leaves is equivalent to Vitamin C in citrus fruits.

The article said that tea strengthens the capillaries and assists the accumulation of Vitamin C in animal tissue.

Blood Change In Cancer Reported

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Scientists at the University of California School of Medicine report that tumors in rats bring about an increase in the clotting time of the animal's blood. As the tumor grows, the clotting time becomes longer.

Under conditions used in the experiments, the normal clotting time for blood in rats is two to five minutes. The time was found to increase with tumor weight. At 15 grams, the clotting time is 15 minutes; at 25 grams, as much as 55 minutes.

Doctors at the university believe the test results indicate that cancerous growths cause some fundamental alteration in the blood clotting mechanism of the whole system. The affected blood has been examined and all known components for normal blood have been found to be present. What exactly causes the change in clotting time in affected animals remains a mystery.

Big Four Slowness Assailed

VIENNA —(AP)— An Austrian member of parliament recently gave the assembly an example of the speed of the Big Four in their attempt to draft an Austrian treaty of independence.

Criticizing the Big Four, Socialist Deputy Dr. Alfred Migsch said: "In meetings totalling 636 days, the deputies of the Big Four have thus far agreed on exactly 12,000 words of the treaty draft. For each word, a time of about one hour and a quarter has been required."

One of the 32 atolls in the Marshall Islands is named "New Year."

Night Club Girls 'Dancers'

By Saul Pett

NEW YORK, — If you want to get along with night club chorus girls, don't call them chorus girls.

Call them dancers.

Don't think that mink will make up for what you lack in good intentions.

Don't assume they're all nitwits. Many have been to college.

Don't whistle or make passes at them from your table. They'll cut you dead.

Don't assume they're dancing just to entertain the tired business man. Most have been trained in ballet and modern dance and are deadly serious about their careers.

Don't invite them to your table if you're drunk. They won't come. And remember, in just about every decent night club it's understood the girls don't leave the place with the customers.

Don't tell them about your Texas oil wells. These girls have been exposed to every line known to man or wolf.

And if you actually do own an oil well and she smiles at you, don't draw any conclusions on your progress. Chances are she's engaged to marry a $75 a week trumpet player.

Do try to talk to them about books and art and the more serious things of life. Many are well travelled, well read and well informed.

Don't assume the girls go out on dates every night. "Most of us," says one, "are home four or five nights a week doing our laundry or housework."

All this information comes from Fletcher and Arden, a producing agency which "packages" musical revues for night clubs in New York, Boston, Miami, New Orleans, Cincinnati and Paris, France.

"Today's chorus girl is far different from the girls in the line in the old days," says Don Fletcher, who employs 150 of them. "She's more intelligent, by far more serious, more moral, more mature, chic but not flashy or brassy."

"We just don't stand around any more on a stage and look pretty," says blue-eyed Joy Skylar, a Fletcher and Arden dancer. "In the old days, they just lined us up in a straight line, we posed, kicked three times and were off.

"Today we try to do work with some meaning and taste. We frequently work in abstract patterns, doing a combination of ballet, modern dance and musical comedy. We don't stand around and giggle and roll our eyes. We play for an audience, not to them."

Fletcher says half of his girls have been to college and about a third are married. "We want beautiful girls," he says, "but we also want girls who are smart looking, wholesome, mature and level headed.

"The average age among our girls is between 22 and 24. If you get them younger, they're likely to be silly and gullible. You know, the kind who'l, sit at a bar with a man, get drunk with him on three martinis and fall for his propaganda

Cripple Licks Arthritis, Makes Good in Home Town

By NEA Service

FITCHBURG, Mass. — Harry Doehla had some trouble that Horatio Alger never would have thought of giving to his heroes. Yet Doehla made good in a way Alger would have liked.

He's now a successful greeting card manufacturer, but 30 years ago he was a depressed young man in a wheel chair. At 17, he was stricken with rheumatic fever.

Doehla's family was poor. His father was a weaver in Fitchburg mills. Before his illness, he had hoped to work his way through college and become a chemist. But that plan was abandoned.

He sank into a long period of despair and self-pity. He tried to earn money by typing, lithographing and other home projects. But no matter how hard he tried, he always failed.

Then some friends suggested he try painting and selling his own greeting cards. Their nephew, a polio victim, had been successful with that plan. Harry Doehla agreed to give it a try.

For six months, working from eight to ten hours a day, he tried to master the art of fine brush painting. At night he lay awake exercising his cramped arthritic fingers. It took him six months to sell his first card; a year later he earned $800.

HARRY DOEHLA: He beat two kinds of depression.

But he was waging a losing battle against his illness. Every day, his hands were less useful. One day he found his right hand unable to use a paint brush. He felt that he was going to fail again.

Then came the idea that saved him. He decided to start a mail order business in greeting cards. His parents mortgaged their home, raising $2800, and he borrowed $1600 from a friend. With that capital, he turned the kitchen into an office and was in business.

He wrote all his own sales literature, handled the buying and the mailing and kept the books. At the end of the year, he'd sold —twice as much as he had hoped for.

Today, Harry Doehla is a smiling, happy man. He's still active $19,000 worth of card assortments in his thriving business, but has other interests now. Chief of those is speaking about his triumph over his handicap, as an inspiration to audiences throughout the country. He travels at his own expense to keep these lecture dates, which are very important to him.

One thing always makes Doehla happy when he thinks about it—he made good in his own home town.

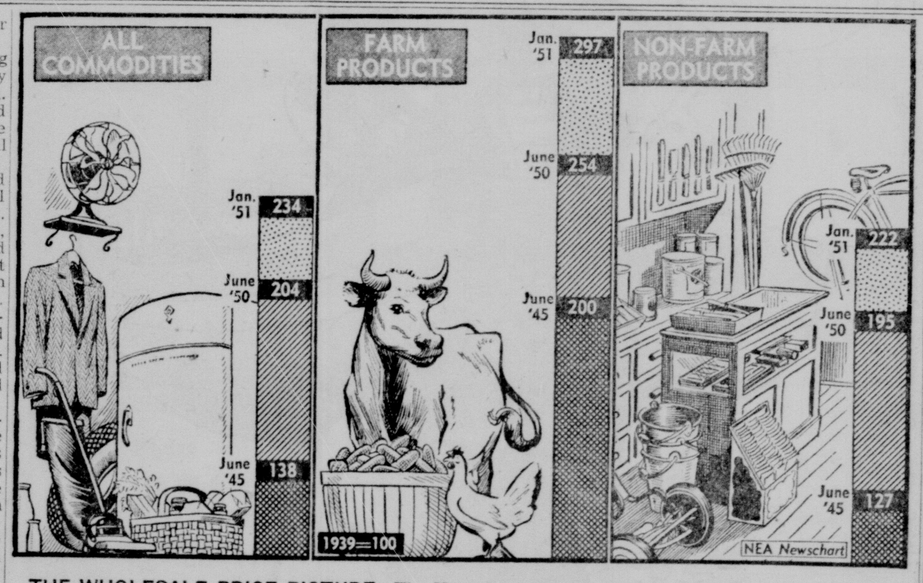

Colorful Attempt to Raise Dead Flops

RANGOON—(AP)—An Indian fakir (holy man) plunged a dagger into his body without ill-effects to prove he was no fake after failing to raise a man from the dead. The attempt to bring the dead to life was made at Pegu, 50 miles from here, when snake charmer Maung Tin was bitten fatally by one of his performing cobras.

It took place in a weird after-dusk ceremony at the Pegu cemetery after local officials permitted exhumation of the body. Flames of kerosene torches lit the graveyard as the dead snake charmer was lifted from his coffin. The fakir produced herbs from his voluminous robes and brewed a foul-smelling concoction.

Then he slowly circled the body muttering incantations. Suddenly he threw himself flat upon the dead man and blew into his nostrils. Mumbling guttural prayers, he forced open the snake charmer's mouth and poured the mixture down his throat. More than 200 people tensed as the fakir commanded the dead to rise.

Nothing happened.

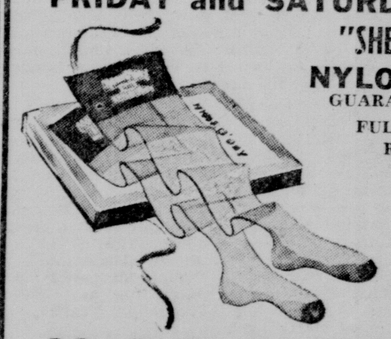

THE WHOLESALE PRICE PICTURE—The Newschart above compares wholesale prices at three critical dates, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Taking all 1939 prices as 100, farm products —which got a big jump on other commodities in World War II—had risen to 297 when the government's January wage-price freeze went into effect. Non-farm products stood at 222 then, while all commodities combined were at 234. From pre-Korea to price freeze, wholesale farm prices rose about 17 per cent, while all commodities rose 15 per cent.

Memos on Korean War Could Prove Almost Any Point

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — When the Senate Armed Services committee starts sorting out all the memos and telecom messages exchanged between the Pentagon and General MacArthur the public may become more confused than ever about who is right in the big debate.

For several documents and memos prepared during various phases of the Korean campaign—if set aside from the others—could be used to prove almost any point.

Furthermore, it was once a paradoxical fact that Secretary of State Acheson was much closer to General MacArthur's position in China than the joint chiefs of staff. The wolf pack that always howls at Acheson's heels has been claiming he was responsible for MacArthur's ouster. However, the record shows first that this was not the case; second, that following MacArthur's disastrous retreat from North Korea in early December, Acheson favored severe punitive measures against China as an aggressor nation.

It was the joint chiefs of staff at that time which vigorously disagreed both with Acheson and MacArthur. In fact, they favored pulling out of Korea altogether.

However, despite individual and sometimes confusing differences of opinion inside the Pentagon there appears to be no occasion when the joint chiefs of staff actually went on record in favor of MacArthur's proposals to bomb Chinese bases and use Chiang Kai-Shek's troops.

MacArthur's Proposals

In order to get as clear a picture as possible regarding the working of the joint chiefs of staff and their policy toward MacArthur, here is a breakdown on how the joint chiefs reacted to various of MacArthur proposals:

Bombing Chinese bases—the nearest the joint chiefs ever came to okaying MacArthur's proposed bombing of Chinese bases was on Feb. 28. Just before that date, MacArthur had sent a long report on enemy air strength now capable of 650 sorties daily. He reported certain strength building up in certain areas and in effect asked permission to bomb these bases.

Replying on Feb. 28, the joint chiefs gave MacArthur a set of five alternatives to counter the Chinese moves. Since these would be of value to the enemy, they cannot be described here. But in each of the five alternatives, MacArthur was instructed to take no action on the Chinese side of the Yalu river without reporting back to the joint chiefs for further instructions.

Naval blockade—Another question at issue in the Korean war has been a naval blockade of Chinese ports. On this, there was agreement. Both the joint chiefs and the state department okayed a naval blockade but it was vetoed by our Allies in the United Nations. This was one of the proposals for which Secretary Acheson fought hardest when Prime Minister Attlee visited Washington. However, Attlee flatly refused to approve any naval blockade of China.

Hot pursuit—Another point of agreement between MacArthur and the joint chiefs was the right of American planes to pursue Communist planes beyond the Chinese border when engaged in a running battle. This did not include the bombing of Chinese bases. Though the joint chiefs agreed to this, either the state department or the national security council disapproved — I have not been able to ascertain which.

Chiang Kai-Shek's troops—This is the issue which MacArthur emphasized in his letter to ex-speaker Joe Martin, the letter which culminated in MacArthur's dismissal. However, use of Chiang's troops never has been seriously considered by the joint chiefs.

General Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs, has argued that Chiang offered his troops chiefly for the purpose of getting them equipped—which would be terrifically expensive. Furthermore, Adm. Forrest Sherman has pointed out that it would take an armada of American vessels to transport them to China.

Finally, the joint chiefs' study of Chiang's combat strength does not jibe with published claims of 600,000 men. According to Pentagon estimates it is nearer 250,000 men. It is also recalled that much of the military equipment we furnished Chiang during the war ended up in the hands of the Communists.

Different personalities — Those close to the joint chiefs of staff point out that they are composed of four different men of varying ages and personalities. Gen. Joe Collins, for instance, chief of staff of the army, was a lieutenant when MacArthur was a general. When Collins went to Tokyo he was technically MacArthur's superior, though he always addressed MacArthur as "General" while MacArthur called him "Joe."

Collins is the member of the joint chiefs who has agreed with MacArthur more than anyone else. He has expressed the private belief that Russia would not intervene if we bombed China, and is reported to have expressed oral agreement with MacArthur on various points during conferences in Tokyo.

Admiral Sherman, the chief of naval operations, on the other hand, has been flatly opposed to MacArthur's position, while General Bradley is almost as vigorous.

Bradley has said privately that if he were in MacArthur's shoes he would probably feel as he does. But, as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, he cannot agree, since he has to consider the entire world and how best to parcel out our limited strength.

The last thing Bradley wants, he has made it clear, is to get sucked into a war on the Chinese mainland.

Note— Pentagon observers believe MacArthur may have some of the tentative directives which are sent to different theater commanders in advance for their comment. These do not become approved directives, however, until the joint chiefs have all the comment, can study them in the light of the over-all picture and then issue them officially. There is a big difference between the studies of the joint chiefs and their final approved directives.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

Lon M. Burrowes, connected with the news staff of the Democrat-Capital for several years, resigned his position to accept one with the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. (He is now managing editor of that newspaper, having been with it continuously since that time.)

Manager R. T. Easley of the Kirksville baseball club in the Missouri State Baseball league, left for that city to get his players started off in practice games.

Lionel Latour, who has been on a business trip through the southern states and Cuba, arrived for a visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. William Latour.

Postmaster E. E. Codding and C. E. Baker, city clerk, were in Kansas City to attend a meeting of the grand chapter of the Royal Arch Masons.

W. A. Leslie succeeded his brother A. E. Leslie in the real estate business here and has removed with his family from Jefferson City to 1524 South Vermont.

The Sixty-Four Dollar Question

Follow These Six Rules, and Homework Can Be Happy Job

Do you really want to LIKE being a housewife? To feel you have a good job, the best job in the world for you?

You can, you know, even if you've gone around for years declaring that you hate everything about housework. Follow these rules for six months and see if you don't grow to like your job.

One. In your own mind quit separating the work of running a home from marriage. Think of marriage as your job and look on the job of housework as the time you put in earning the right to be a married woman, with a husband, children and a home of your own.

Two. If your days are all dull routine, look for ways to change your pace. Hurry up the jobs that seem like pure drudgery, so that you'll have time to do something more creative, such as making your home more beautiful by becoming your own decorator, entertaining friends so well that people love to come to your home, using ingenuity to plan for family fun.

A Better Living

Three. Instead of envying the women you know who have their own pay checks, realize that you, too, are earning your own living. And that it is probably a better living than you would have been able to manage if you had chosen a career instead of marriage.

Four. Have you helped your husband get ahead and are you still helping him in every way you can? If so, give yourself credit for that, but quietly, not reminding him or your friends of what you have done. That is a satisfaction a woman must enjoy privately.

Five. Do your children have a happy home life? If you know they do, then what might seem like drudgery can't be drudgery when you think of it in terms of creating a happy home, rather than in terms of just doing housework.

Six. Make up your mind that you are going to get better at your job every year. No job is any fun unless you feel that you are handling it better all the time.

• Q's and A's

Q—For whom was the camellia named?

A—The flower camellia was named for a Jesuit, George Josef Kamel, or Camelli, who it is said, brought the plant to Europe from the East.

Q—What president of the United States composed a piece of music for his wife?

A—President John Tyler, reputedly won his second wife, Julia Gardiner, by composing a serenade to her. The song was entitled "Sweet Lady, Awake."

Q—Who was Kilroy in the saying "Kilroy was here!"?

A—The only discoverable answers are that he was a mythical person and that he was ubiquitous. How or when the catchphrase originated is a mystery, but it is probable that some branch of the American Army in World War II was responsible for it.

* * *

Q—Which state was the first to require birth registration?

A—Georgia, on Dec. 19, 1823.

Q—On what kind of cloth is the Constitution of the United States written?

A—The Constitution is not written on cloth. It is engrossed on parchment.

What's RIGHT?

A friend does you a favor which you requested and at the time of asking you said you would appreciate it very much.

WRONG: Don't bother to thank the person afterward, since you have already said you would appreciate it.

RIGHT: After the favor is done be sure to say "Thank you."

Someone says something complimentary about a member of your family.

WRONG: Feel you must play down the compliment by some critical remark of your own.

RIGHT: Accept the compliment graciously, without trying to play it down.

KILLER'S PACE

BY JULIUS LONG

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: I (Jim Marshall) am trying to solve a murder case in order to save my boss Star Williams from disbarment as a lawyer. After double attempts on my life, I reach my apartment and find Sonya Sareeta, the lady magician, there. Then Clara Mayhew, receptionist for a burial vault firm, and Smiley Wetlauffer, a mortician, appear.

CLARA MAYHEW and Sonya Sareeta rejoined us quietly. "I think we'd better go," said Miss Mayhew. "Sonya is coming home with me."

I regarded Sonya with speculation. "You two girls should get along well," I remarked. "Miss Mayhew is something of a performer herself. Have her tell about her bathing beauty act in the glass tank at the Prater office."

"I shall," said Sonya.

"By the way, Miss Mayhew, I certainly admired that yellow bathing suit of yours. I'd like to buy one just like it for a maiden aunt of mine. Mind telling me where you bought it?"

"Polsky's. You should have seen the outfit that Mrs. Wertheim bought for the act! Brother! I don't know where she dug it up! Hugo—Mr. Wertheim had a heck of a time explaining to her that it wasn't the thing. He's the most hen-pecked character I ever saw. In the end he had to tell his wife that Mr. Prater picked out the green one."

"But it was yellow, Miss Mayhew."

"That's what I said, yellow. Well, nighty-night everybody!"

Smiley was looking on very inquisitively.

"Well, for crying out loud, kiss Sonya goodnight!" said Smiley.

I was between that devil and the deep V. I kissed her, and I knew at once that I'd have been better off if I hadn't ducked and had taken her bullet right between the eyes.

MY guests had been gone only a few minutes when my speaking tube whistled. I answered. It was a low, hushed voice.

"I must see you. It's very important!"

It was Louise. I answered by pressing the door lock button. Then I took out the .380 and gave it a good once-over. There was a cartridge in the chamber and seven more in the magazine. I threw off the safety. Then I stuffed the gun between the cushion and the side of my favorite lounge chair. A furtive rap sounded on my door.

Louise wore a wrap pulled around her. She looked frightened.

"Come on in, Louise, and bring your friends."

She looked still more frightened and cringed. Then Al Nanabarro and the character called Lou filled the doorway. There was a third man, and he backed up Louise. They all came in very fast. They all had guns excepting Louise.

"You expected us then?"

"Sure. Sit down, folks, and make yourselves at home." I did a double-take at the third man. "I remember you. You were the guy driving the truck this evening. Better luck next time!"

Nanabarro eyed me coldly. "You talk too much, Marshall." He turned to Lou. "Frisk him."

Lou did a good job of it. He turned up nothing.

Nanabarro frowned. "If you knew we were coming up with Louise, why aren't you heeled?"

"Well, I figured you'd bring your mob, and I knew I'd be outnumbered. So I phoned headquarters and told the desk sergeant to leave a note that you'd just visited me."

Nanabarro laughed shortly. "That's a poor play. We've all got airtight alibis or we wouldn't be here."

"Like you had the night Frannie Martin drove her car into the river?"

Nanabarro moved with the rapidity of a rattlesnake striking. His gun butt raked my face. It didn't feel good.

"Would you mind telling me," I asked Nanabarro, "just what you're looking for?"

He eyed me contemptuously. "As if you didn't know. Sonya was here. I saw her leave. When she didn't kill you tonight that was the pay-off. I had a hunch all along she was working for you and that slimy little mouthpiece."

I WHIRLED suddenly, hoping Nanabarro wouldn't be expecting me to. He wasn't. I slapped his gun out of his hand—too far. It skidded clear across the carpet out of my reach as well as his. I hung a left hook on his button and started for the gun.

I thought I had stopped Nanabarro at least temporarily. I hadn't. He caught my arm, spun me around and landed a right hook on my jaw. I went down, Nanabarro kicked my ribs and I clutched at his ankle. He lost his balance and went down backwards. I didn't try to go after him—I was still after that gun.

"Hold it!"

I turned. Both of Nanabarro's boys stood over me. Then I saw that while the guns were pointed at me, the gaze of each man was away. Nanabarro, too, was looking toward the door. Nick Ricardo stood there, his candid camera focused on us all. He grinned and said:

"A perfect picture for tomorrow's paper, only nobody will believe it isn't posed. It's just too good."

I got up and I had Nanabarro's gun when I did. The guns were still on me, but nobody was going to use them with a camera focussed.

"Give me that film!" Nanabarro said coldly. Ricardo stepped back.

"Not on your life! Keep him off me, Marshall." I waved my gun.

"You win," said Nanabarro. "I'll make a deal. One grand for that film!"

A strange voice said: "What's going on there! Stop all that racket!"

The Doctor Says—

Doctor Has Several Ways To Study Stomach for Ulcer

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Suppose you have had pain in the stomach region or peculiar stomach sensations for a few weeks and go to the doctor. What next? The story that you tell may raise the suspicion of ulcer of the stomach. The doctor wants to make sure before starting treatment.

There are many things he can do. One is to give a special test meal, withdraw the stomach contents through a rubber tube after a little while, and examine the material for acid and other things. This is of enormous help and although sometimes a person dreads the tube for the first time, it is not painful. In fact, a great many patients learn to do it themselves without difficulty. Another thing that is usually done is to examine a sample of intestinal waste for blood since the doctor needs to know whether the ulcer is bleeding.

Important in any study of the stomach is the X-ray. For this the patient is given a liquid to drink which contains barium. The barium keeps the rays from going through so that the stomach can be seen in a sort of silhouette picture.

An ulcer pocket is visible by this method so that its location and size is accurately known. It is possible, too, to look directly into the stomach by means of an ingenious flexible tube fitted with mirrors and called a gastroscope. Pictures can be taken of the inside of the stomach if desired.

All this is necessary as a preliminary to treatment. But something should be said about treatment, also, because people often get confused about it and wonder why one person is treated one way for ulcer and the next-door neighbor another.

The answer is simple. The treatment depends on the location of the ulcer, on its size, on the symptoms produced, on the age or occupation of the patient, and many other factors which vary from person to person.

Treatment

In general, medical treatment is aimed at avoiding irritation of the ucler from acid, nervous strain, or anything else so that the ulcer will be given a chance to heal. Surgical treatment, of which their are several kinds, has a similar purpose unless the particular operation is for removal of the ulcer and the stomach area around it.

Which of these various methods to use demands careful study and expert weighing of all the factors in each individual person.

Eggs Are Now Plentiful and Nutritious

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

Now that eggs are so plentiful let's use them frequently to keep nutritional standards high while we keep food costs low.

Egg and Potato Scallop
(4 Servings)

One cup thin white sauce, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, salt and pepper to taste, 2 or 3 medium-sized cooked potatoes, sliced, 4 to 6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced, soft bread crumbs.

Make white sauce. Add parsley salt and pepper. Place alternate layers of potatoes and eggs in a greased baking dish and pour the white sauce over. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake at 375 degrees F. (moderate oven) 15 to 20 minutes.

Serve with broccoli and a tart green salad, with apple pie and cheese for dessert.

Poached Egg Surprise
(4 servings)

One cup milk, 2 tablespoons table fat, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 4 slices toast, soft sharp cheese, 4 eggs.

Make white sauce of milk, fat, flour and salt. Add green pepper. Spread the toast thickly with cheese. Poach eggs until firm. Place on the toast and pour hot sauce over all. Serve at once.

Serve with snap beans, stuffed tomato salad, and chocolate cake.

Baked Eggs in Pepper Rings
(4 servings)

Four large green pepper rings about ½-inch thick, 4 eggs, salt and pepper, 4 tablespoons milk, crumbs mixed with fat.

Cook green pepper rings in lightly salted water for 5 minutes. Drain. Place rings in hot greased shallow baking dish. Break an egg into each ring. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour a tablespoon of milk over each egg. Cover with crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) until the eggs are set — 20 to 25 minutes.

Serve with potatoes in cheese sauce, fresh tomato wedges, and apple brown betty.

Grease Gun Proven Under Fire

WITH THE FIRST MARINE DIVISION IN KOREA—(AP)—Seldom does necessity have more opportunity for motherhood than with cooks manning front line galleys in Korea. Take the case of Marine Mess Sergeant William I. Penney of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Penney decided to "whomp up a batch" of jelly-filled doughnuts for palate-weary men in his unit. Necessary ingredients were mixed and sizzling in deep fat when he had a horrible thought! How was he to get the jelly into the doughnuts?

Sergeant Penney rose magnificently to the emergency. Cranking up the field telephone, Penney called motor transport. Two hours later every man in the company was chomping away on doughnuts, complete with jelly centers.

"Nothin' like a grease gun for filling pastry," said Penney proudly.

Candy Treasure a Hit With Youngsters

McKEESPORT, Pa.—(AP)—What every child forever dreams of—an unlimited supply of candy—finally came true for children of near-by Jefferson township.

Hundreds of lemon and orange drops were passed around in a rare treat when a lucky youngster found four large crates of the sweet stuff in a creek bed. Police estimated the value of the cache at $300. The candy was made in Argentina, but nobody sooms to know how it turned up in the creek.

In any case it didn't matter to the children. They were quite happy about the whole thing.

Briton Still Watches For French Raiders

WINCHELSEA, England—(AP)—Some 600 years ago French marauders raided this once flourishing English Channel port. Ever since, the mayor and aldermen have paid a watchman to ascend an old stone lookout to give warning of any possible raid.

The corporation of the little town, (population 693) have just paid their annual 22 shillings and sixpense, (a little more than $3.00), to stocky, 59-year-old Fred Curd.

They have decided there is so little likelihood of French raids that Fred can safely add to his not-onerous duties by taking on a further sinecure—Keeper of the Town Mace.

Seven Talents—1951 Style

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Some Sunday next September—if all goes well—a minister will watch his congregation walk into church with $4,000. It's all part of a plan designed to practice the teachings of the Bible by helping the church raise $15,000 for remodeling costs.

The Rev. Arthur Moffat, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church of nearby Pitcairn, passed out $2,000 in small bills to his congregation and told them to double it by any legal means possible. The plan is based on the parable of the talents, related by Jesus nearly 2,000 years ago.

The brittle star, a cousin of the starfish, is so fragile it is seldom found in shallow water disturbed by waves.

Plants Evergreens For Future Security

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—A young Pittsburgh minister thinks the 40,000 evergreens trees he has planted will keep him in his old age.

The Rev. Stewart P. Robinson, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and his wife planted 20,000 of the trees themselves on a farm the couple owns near Delhi, N. Y. The other 20,000 were planted by a professional.

Robinson hopes to plant another 100,000 evergreens in coming years. Although he doesn't expect to get rich, he says the trees are a good investment for the future He adds: "If this inflation keeps on, I can be sure my investment is growing anyway."

Enjoy Tender Chicken With a French Accent

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

The French eat well. I rechecked recently when we spent a few wonderful eating days in Paris.

Let's look into a new cookbook called "Good Food From France." It contains 450 selected recipes and menus. It is clearly translated into "kitchen American" and can do a lot to brighten up our menus.

Broilers and fryers are on the plentiful list now, so let's open "Good Food From France" at the Poultry and Game Section.

Chicken a la Provencale

A three-pound chicken, 4 tablespoons oil, 1 small eggplant, flour, salt and pepper, 4 tomatoes, oil, 1 clove garlic, finely chopped, ½ cup dry white wine (or ½ cup water with a few drops of lemon juice), ⅔ cup hot water, 1 teaspoon tomato paste, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Ask your butcher to cut the chicken into 6 to 8 pieces. Heat the oil until it smokes and saute the chicken on both sides. Cover and continue cooking until it is tender (25-30 minutes). At the same time, slice the eggplant quite thin. Dip each piece in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Slice the tomatoes thick enough so that they will hold their shape. About 10 minutes before the chicken is cooked, saute both eggplant and tomatoes in hot oil.

When the chicken is tender, place it on a heated platter. Stir the garlic into the fat and add the wine. Mix the tomato paste and water. Pour this into the pan and boil hard for a moment. Pour the sauce over the chicken. Surround it with the eggplant and tomatoes. Sprinkle all with salt, pepper and chopped parsley.

Chicken Casserole

One 3 to 3½-pound chicken, 3 tablespoons butter, salt and white pepper, 12 tiny onions, 2 white turnips, sliced, 2 carrots, sliced, 2 tablespoons diced salt pork, ½ pound mushrooms.

Order a broiler or fryer dressed for roasting. Choose a casserole with a tight-fitting cover which can be used on top of the stove. Melt the butter in the casserole and brown the chicken on all sides. Sprinkle with salt and a little white pepper. If the chicken is to be served alone, cover and bake in a moderate (375 degrees F.) oven for 35 to 40 minutes. The chicken is done when a fork will enter easily into the thigh.

If the chicken is to be served garnished with vegetables, add these after the chicken has been browned. Boil the onions, turnips, and carrots in salted water for 10 minutes beforehand. Brown the salt pork in a frying pan and drain before adding. Wash and drain the mushrooms but they need not be cooked separately. Place them around the chicken, cover the casserole and cook 25 to 30 minutes. Sprinkle the vegetables with a little salt and pepper before serving.

Other vegetables used in the French chicken casserole include peas, beans, and artichoke bottoms, all of which are partially cooked before they are added to the chicken.

MENU

BREAKFAST — Pineapple juice, bacon omelet, ready-mix muffins, butter or fortified margarine, strawberry jam, coffee, milk.

DINNER — Chicken casserole with vegetables, whipped potatoes, crusty rolls, butter or fortified margarine, fresh asparagus salad, Vinaigrette dressing, strawberry Bavarian sponge cake squares, coffee, milk.

SUPPER — Cold cuts, country fried potatoes, baking powder biscuits, butter or fortified margarine, fruit salad, sour cream dressing, oatmeal cookies, tea, milk.

Students in India Represent Many Countries

NEW DELHI—(AP)—Nearly 750 foreign students are studying in Indian universities, Education Minister Abul Kalam Azad said recently in parliament.

The largest number are from Ceylon, 210. British East Africa comes next with 181. Others include 73 from Burma, 23 from Iran, 22 from China, 41 from Malaya, 32 from Nepal, 31 from the United Kingdom, 13 from Indonesia, four from the United States, three from Tibet, seven from the West Indies, eight from France, and one each from Egypt, Russia and Germany.

Most of the world's wool, according to the National Geographic Society, comes from the southern hemisphere.

Airmen Swamp Base Chapels

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—The men of the U. S. Air Force are turning to religion. An average of 12,000 airmen now attend the 115 services offered by Lackland Air Force Base chaplains in the ten chapels on the base. There are more than 30 chaplains, representing all faiths.

Sunday Services are held from early morning until late evening. Because the chapels won't hold the crowds, two theaters and a large assembly tent are used for religious services.

Realizing the spirit-lifting importance of a new spring hat, this young woman accepts her low budget as a challenge. To bring her last year's pill-box up to date, she begins (upper left) by drawing circles that will later be shaped into vari-sized cones. Yellow felt is the fabric for small side-placed cones (lower left) which are complemented by matching bead-eyed daisies dotted on chignon-cover veil. Pink silk with black polka-dots is used for large cone (center) perched aslant for coolie-hat effect. A cone of turquoise velvet, enhanced with cage veil, gives new forward movement to pill-box (upper right), while a black velvet peak and fan-shaped hat pins add a touch of the Oriental (lower right). Silk and velvet cones are formed on buckram for body and shape.

India To Return Nepal Money

NEW DELHI —(AP)— The Indian government, on the request of the Nepal government, has taken steps to return $735,000 seized from the Nepalese insurgent leaders here on Nov. 13, 1950.

The amount was seized at the Delhi airport when two insurgent leaders, arrived in a special plane with the money, reportedly for presentation to King Tribhuvana, then an exile in the Indian capital. It had been taken from the government treasury in Birganj, the southern Nepal district, which fell to the insurgents in the early days of the insurrection.

Cash-Carry Dairy For Economy

BELLEVILLE, Ont. — (AP) — A "cash and carry" dairy where milk will be sold at four to five cents less than prevailing prices is being started here as an experiment, sixty-year-old George Graham will sell milk at 15 to 18 cents a quart. The regular price here is 20 to 22 cents.

"Milk is a vital food, particularly for children, yet many people can't afford it at the present prices," says Graham, a former rancher and businessman. He has been in the dairy business for 25 years and owns a herd of 260 Jersey and Ayrshire cows.

New Variety Pinto Bean

LAS CRUCES, N. M.—(AP)—The government has found a new pinto bean that's almost twice as easy to cook as the old variety.

You'll likely be eating it for the pinto bean—speckled with white splotches like a pony—is justly famous in the southwest for its flavor.

There was just one drawback to the old kind—it had to be cooked and cooked. New Mexico A. & M. college experiment station has just announced the new strain of pintos has proved itself over three years' testing.

Budget Meals Do Require Planning

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

In order to eat well for less these days, careful study of what the market offers, a knowledge of cooking or the ability to follow recipes and a willingness to plan menus in advance are needed. Let's not try to fool ourselves. It is becoming harder and harder to feed the family well on the average budget. Nevertheless, it can be done.

Here are a few budget menus carefully planned by market and cooking experts of a great American city. Use them as a guide to your own planning.

Luncheon: Cream of tomato soup, peanut butter and jelly sandwich, stewed mixed fruit, milk. Dinner: Baked macaroni and cheese, marinated vegetable salad, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, apple dumplings with lemon sauce, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: A date and nut bread and cheese sandwich, carrot slaw, fresh fruit, cocoa, tea. Dinner: Meat loaf with mushroom sauce, sauteed yellow turnips, mashed potatoes, escarole and radish salad, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, date-rice pudding, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: Black bean soup, a tomato and bacon sandwich, fresh pears, milk. Dinner: Chicken-noodle soup, pork chow mein, rice noodles, lettuce, slaw, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, almond cookies, coffee, milk.

Luncheon: Chopped ham and carrot sandwiches, spinach and egg salad, cocoa. Dinner: Potato crusted meat loaf, stewed tomatoes with celery, peas, molded vegetable salad, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, stewed apple slices, coffee, milk.

Here are two main dishes that use tongue — a good budget meat.

Tongue and Lima Skillet
(4 to 6 servings)

Two cups diced cooked tongue, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons fat, ¼ cup catsup, ⅓ teaspoon thyme, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups (No. 2 can) lima beans, 1 teaspoon vinegar (optional).

Pan-fry onions in hot fat in a skillet. Add remaining ingredients and simmer for 5 minutes.

Tongue and Noodle Casserole
(4 to 6 servings)

Two cups diced cooked tongue, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons fat, ⅛ teaspoon curry powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 ten-ounce can cream of chicken soup, 2 cups cooked noodles, ¾ cup shredded sharp cheese.

Pan-fry onion and peppers in hot fat. Combine with tongue, curry powder, salt, soup, noodles, and ½ cup of the cheese. Turn into a 2-quart casserole. Top with remaining cheese. Bake in a mo-

Grill Long Island Duckling

DUCKLING HALVES broiled over outdoor grill.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

For that open fire meal, now that the spring urge is on you, grill halves of Long Island duckling.

It cooks in a short time and is so well protected by its layer of skin and fat that the cooked meat is juicy and succulent.

Fresh killed Long Island ducklings are available in the New York marketing area from April to November. In other parts of the country quick-frozen eviscerated Long Island ducklings are available at frozen food counters under brand names of leading meat packers.

Depending on the heartiness of appetites to be served, plan half a duck per person for hungry folks, or a quarter per person for more restrained eaters Wash the duckling in cold water and dry carefully. Cut off neck and wing tips. Cut duckling in half, or quarters, and cut the backbone. Arrange pieces of duck on rack. Place over the prepared even heat, about 15 inches above the coals, with the cut side, or inside, down. Let grill for 15 minutes. Turn and continue cooking for another 15 minutes. Brush all over with a seasoning sauce and let grill a minute or two longer. Because the fat drips out steadily as the duckling broils, there is not much point in basting with a sauce until the duck is done. However, when the duck is half done and turned, sauce can be brushed over the cooked side.

Seasoning Sauce: The duckling pieces can be brushed with a Chinese type of honey glaze, consisting of ¼ cup strained honey, 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet and ½teaspoon salt per duck, or with a more highly seasoned Spanish type of barbecue sauce such as the following:

Barbecue Sauce for Grilled Duckling
(Makes about ¾ cup sauce, or enough for 2 ducklings.)

One tablespoon butter, 1 small clove garlic, minced, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons wine vinegar, ¼ cup catsup, 3 tablespoons honey, 1½ teaspoons kitchen bouquet, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt.

Melt the butter over moderate heat. Add garlic and onion. Let cook about 3 minutes. Add vinegar, catsup, honey, kitchen bouquet and seasonings. Stir to mix well. Bring just to boil. Use for basting grilled duckling.

BREAKFAST — Stewed rhubarb, ready-to-eat cereal, bacon rolls, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON — Cream of potato and onion soup in bowls, watercress sandwiches, sliced oranges and grapes, cookies, tea, milk.
OUTDOOR GRILLED DINNER — Grilled Long Island duckling, buttered rolls, crisp potato sticks, raw relishes such as cucumber fingers, celery, carrot sticks, radishes, sprays of watercress and quartered oranges, layer cake or frosted cup cakes, coffee, milk.

This streamlined gray broadcloth sheath dress by Greta Plattry provides the basis for wardrobe changes that take the wearer through an entire day. For afternoon, there's a gray voile tunic (right) with natural straw belt.

Wanted: Experienced Secretaries

LUBBOCK, Tex. —(AP)— Experience is more important than college training to the secretary seeking a job. But most important are dependability, efficiency and courtesy. Those were the results of a poll conducted by the department of economics of Texas Technological college of Lubbock. Pollsters talked to business men in the fields of law, insurance, oil and real estate.

Thirty per cent of those contacted preferred secretaries with business school training; 25 per cent wanted some college training; 23.3 per cent a college degree, and 21.7 per cent a high school education.

A large majority—73.3 per cent—asked for secretaries with previous experience. Eleven per cent said they preferred secretaries with no experience.

The body of the brittle star, a deep sea dweller, varies in size from two inches down to a pinhead.

Heavy Rains May Force Iowa Crop Switch

DES MOINES —(AP)— It's a poor spring that isn't good for something and this cold, wet one may prove beneficial at least in one way. It may help the Department of Agriculture's program to boost corn acreage.

Spring work in most of the state today is from one to three weeks behind schedule. Normally a good part of the oats crop would be seeded in southern Iowa by this time of the year. Instead, very little planting has been done. A few fields of high ground and good drainage may have been seeded. Some farmers haven't been able to get into the fields for even routine activities like fence repairing and manure spreading.

Some operators say that it may be necessary to shift from oats to corn or another row crop.

THE VERSATILE MACARONI FAMILY

You are familiar with elbow macaroni and long spaghetti but did you ever meet the interesting relatives pictured here? The macaroni family has more than 150 members.

The more common shapes long ago earned a treasured place on the menus of most families. But some of the more unusual shapes await introduction. For instance, rosemarina, tufoli lisci, quadretti, elena, gnocchi and anellini rigati prove fascinating to the youngsters. These macaroni foods have a happy way of giving a lift to simple dishes.

Check the label on the product you buy, though, for either "Made from Durum Wheat," or "Made from Semolina." These labels are your proof of a high quality macaroni food which will hold its shape when cooked.

Meal planners know how helpful macaroni foods are in balancing the budget. These wheat foods are inexpensive themselves yet they are so bland they stretch the flavors of the more expensive meats and vegetables with which they are combined.

Durum wheat is a very hard type of wheat. A rich golden color, it contains a high percent of body-building plant protein. Durum wheat is grown principally in Minnesota, North and South Dakota. Because it is such a hard wheat, it is particularly good for macaroni products which must hold their shape.

Macaroni foods can be served at any course of a meal. They are an excellent addition to soup giving it a heartiness that makes soup so popular with the entire family. Use the smaller varieties of macaroni for soups, salads and desserts. The larger shapes are best for casserole and platter dishes.

Try your favorite spaghetti, macaroni or noodle recipe and use one of the shapes you have never tried before. It is sure to fascinate your meal-time companions and add new interest to the menu. Follow the directions on the package for cooking time. Macaroni Skillet Dish is an easy-to-make and thrifty choice for extra busy spring housecleaning days.

MACARONI SKILLET DISH

4 ounces sea shell macaroni
¼ pound link sausages
1 small onion, diced
3 tablespoons enriched flour
½ cup water
¼ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Dash paprika
¼ teaspoon mustard
1 hard cooked egg

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender (about 10 minutes). Drain and rinse. While macaroni is cooking fry sausages in skillet. Add onion and cook until brown. Remove sausages from skillet and drain off all the fat except 2 tablespoons. To drippings remaining in skillet, add flour, brown sugar, salt, pepper, paprika, and mustard. Blend well. Gradually add water and vinegar stirring constantly, and cook until slightly thickened. Cut sausages and egg into small pieces and add to sauce with macaroni. Mix well. serve very hot.

Makes 4 servings.

Banana Split is 'Solid' Eating

OLD-FASHIONED BANANA SPLIT—loaded with nutrition.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

Good fun can be good nutrition, too. Banana splits are an example.

The combination of ripe bananas with their vitamin A and high calorie count and ice cream, actually a dairy food, with its cream, milk and milk solids, containing calcium, phosphorus and protein, carries quite a food wallop.

So enjoy yourself. Let the youngsters come in on the fun, too. Go down to the store and buy various ice cream flavors in bulk, assemble the splits and garnish with nuts, fruit and sauces and whipped cream.

Banana Split Supreme
(Serves one)

One medium-sized banana, 1 scoop vanilla ice cream, 1 scoop chocolate ice cream, 1 scoop strawberry ice cream (all bulk), 2 tablespoons chopped nuts, 2 tablespoons fruit cocktail, 4 tablespoons chocolate sauce, ¼ cup whipped cream, shredded cocoanut, 1 maraschino cherry.

Split banana in half lengthwise, with the peel on. This will prevent the banana from breaking. Remove peel and place halves on each side of an oval dish. Place scoops of vanilla, chocolate and strawberry ice cream on top of banana. Sprinkle chopped nuts over vanilla ice cream, and fruit cocktail over strawberry. Pour chocolate sauce over chocolate ice cream. Top with whipped cream, cocoanut and cherry.

Sugar Plum Special
(Serves 1)

One medium-sized banana, 1 scoop raspberry-vanilla ice cream, 1 scoop tutti-fruiti ice cream, 1 scoop vanilla ice cream (all bulk), 5 tablespoons raspberry preserve, ¼ cup whipped cream, 2 tablespoons chopped nuts.

Prepare banana as for Banana Split Supreme. Place scoops of ice cream on top, and cover with raspberry preserve, reserving one tablespoon for garnish. Top with whipped cream and chopped nuts. Garnish with remainder of raspberry preserve.

MENU

BREAKFAST —Orange juice, soft-cooked eggs, bran muffins, butter or fortified margarine, jelly, coffee, milk.

Gnat Insecticide Successful —So Far

CLEAR LAKE, Calif. —(AP)— Summer residents of this resort town, two hours drive north of San Francisco, are wondering if the gnats will come back this year. They enjoyed relief from the pests after U. S. Department of Agriculture entomologists sprayed the area with TDE last year. The question now is whether a few survivors have multiplied to again become a major annoyance.

Scientists report that TDE is a poison which has proven successful against gnats so far. The California Department of Fish and game noted no harmful effects to fish in the lakes treated. The entomologists say TDE holds great promise as the possible solution to the gnat problem, which can ruin an otherwise popular resort.

Use Abundant Foods of Spring

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

Egg production is at a high level. So that's good news for the May food budget — as is omelets, custards, puddings, cakes, on and on to everyone's satisfaction.

Spring greens are abundant — scallions, dandelion, salad greens of nearly every kind—salads galore and that means more health all around the dinner table.

Broiling and frying chickens are abundant, too — that means less strain on the budget and lots of good American eating.

Here's the complete list of foods expected to be in abundant supply during May, as prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: Cheese, cottage cheese, peanut butter, lettuce, spring greens, dry beans, apples, canned applesauce, eggs, fresh and frozen fish fillets, broilers and fryers.

Dutch Apple Cake

One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, ⅓ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅓ cup fat, 1 egg, beaten, ½ cup milk, 3 medium-sized apples, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons table fat, 2 tablespoons mild syrup or light cream.

Sift together the flour, 3 tablespoons of sugar, baking powder, and salt. Cut in the ⅓ cup fat with 2 knives or a pastry blender. Combine egg and milk; add to dry ingredients. Mix to a soft dough. Spread the dough in a shallow greased pan (8x8 inches). Pare, core and slice apples; place on dough in rows of overlapping slices. Mix remaining sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over the apples. Dot with table fat. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Remove from oven and pour syrup over apple topping, (9 servings).

Fried Apples and Bacon

Fry bacon until crisp, drain, and keep hot. Leave about 4 tablespoons of fat in the skillet, fill it with sliced unpeeled apples, sprinkle with sugar, if desired, cover and cook slowly until tender. Remove the cover to let the apples brown. Serve on a hot platter with the bacon.

MENU

BREAKFAST — Grapefruit juice, fried apple rings and bacon, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON — Casserole of kidney beans, onions and green peppers, whole wheat bread, butter or fortified margarine, sliced oranges and fresh strawberries, tea, milk.
DINNER — Creamed leftover chicken on toast squares, steamed rice, soft rolls, butter or fortified margarine, large bowl spring greens and leftover vegetables, French dressing, Dutch apple cake with mild syrup or light cream, coffee, milk.

IT'S A NIGHTMARE—That's what you'd say if you met this character while sleepwalking. The two dancers entwined as one represent a choreographic nightmare in a ballet titled "The Sleepwalker," being presented by the Grand Ballet of the Marquis de Cuevas in Paris. Predicts Space Ships In Near Future

CANBERRA—(AP)—Dr. David F. Martyn, an Australian scientist, says some of us may be here when robot space ships are flying round the moon. He told a reporter, however, it was highly improbable that scientists would ever land on the moon.

Dr. Martyn recently returned from the United States where he consulted with U. S. Air Force officers on atmospheric problems. He is chief scientist of the Radio Research Board of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization. He also predicted that "in our time" artificial "space stations" would circle the globe, recording by radio valuable information for scientists on earth.

"This is not idle speculation," the scientist said. "It is something to which scientists in America are giving serious consideration. A great deal of the work they are doing is highly secret. I doubt whether it has anything to do with the flying saucers people have reported."
